Water Export Joins Issues

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Prime Minister Pearson told TV viewers Friday night his government plans to discuss the export of Canadian water with United States officials.

"This can be as important as exporting wheat or oil or anything else, and one day we'll find out how important this resource is," he said in Ottawa.

In Victoria, John Diefenbaker took sharp exception to this and made the issue a major topic in his two-hour speech to a packed house in the Bay Street Armory last night.

Rekindling his vision of Canada for an enthusiastic crowd he said "the proposed export of Canadian water is not in keeping with the constitutional rights of the provinces and forgets the demands of our young citizens in the next 30 years."

At the same time in Nelson Mr. Diefenbaker's former agriculture minister, Alvin Hamilton, said Canada should agree to the United States plan to syphon off huge quantities of fresh water. In his outline Mr. Pearson stressed Canada would have to be "awfully careful" to ensure that its own needs are met before exporting water to the U.S.

Diefenbaker: NO PEACE IN ABANDONING ASIA

By IAN ARBOL

Most of the more than 3,000 in attendance at the Bay Street Armory Conservative rally Friday night joined national leader John Diefenbaker in his affirmation of faith in the traditions and future of Canada.

Apart from one persistent heckler who provided the old warrior with opportunities to add shafts of wit to his presentation, the only solid opposition came from a group of 12 called the Peace Action League which called out periodically: "What about Viet Nam?"

'Fair Deal for B.C.'

Bennett To Battle

By IAN STREET

GANGES — Premier Bennett disclosed here Friday he will campaign in this election—starting with a rally at Prince George Oct. 21—for "a fair deal for B.C."

The premier gave places where he will make election speeches, including Victoria at the end of this month, but no firm dates. He was here to open a new $250,000 government building, then planned to spend a quiet weekend on his Salt Spring Island retreat.

He will fly to Prince George for the campaign opener, returning by air to Vancouver the next day for a press conference in the Hotel Vancouver.

The trip through the Interior, covering the Okanagan and East and West Kootenays, will be by car, with the premier stopping frequently to "main street," shaking hands with individual voters and chatting about local problems.

Pressed for more details of his speaking schedule, he said, "Elections are not won by speeches. You must meet the public."

The premier will then, presumably, return to Victoria about the end of the month for an election rally here before going to Vancouver for the Socreds' convention and a windup election meeting Nov. 5.

When he speaks in Kimberley there will be Welfare Minister Black and Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell in support. At Trail the ministers will be Donald Brothers, mines, and Eric Martin, health.

At Penticton it will be Recreation Minister Kiernan and Agriculture Minister Richter, and at Vernon Mr. Richter and Highways Minister Gagliardi.

In addition, under the two-province Socred plan of attack, Resources Minister Williston will campaign in Medicine Hat, Attorney-General Borne in Lethbridge, and Highways Minister Gagliardi in Edmonton.

Alberta cabinet ministers will make a series of return trips to B.C., but details aren't released yet.

Demonstrations Across Country

Thousands Deride U.S. For Action in Viet Nam

By UPI

Critics of U.S. participation in Viet Nam marched by the thousands in noisy demonstrations Friday in cities across the nation in a concerted drive for a reversal of American foreign policy.

Heavy Blow

Viet Nam Ignores Red Call

SAIGON (UPI)—The people of South Viet Nam dealt a blow to the Communists Friday by disregarding a Viet Cong call for an hour-long nationwide strike.

Men, women and children flocked as usual to markets, schools and places of business as the time called for the strike—11 a.m. to noon—came and went without incident.

U.S. Embassy officials who kept a close tab on everyday activities in towns and cities of South Viet Nam said the Communist bid for an outpouring of popular support was "a total fiasco."

TO PROVE BOAST

The strike call was the first the Communists have made to prove their boast that the majority of the Vietnamese people stand behind them.

The failure of the strike was regarded by some observers as the closest thing to an election ever offered to the Vietnamese public during the 20-year struggle with the Communists. Officials wondered why the Communists had put their prestige on the line so recklessly.

ANNIVERSARY

The strike-call was made to mark the anniversary of the execution of a Communist terrorist in Saigon.

The walkout was to have touched off a month of "popular struggle" against the government and U.S. forces.

Montreal Students In March

MONTREAL (UPI)—About 120 Montreal students, their enthusiasm dampened by a steady drizzle held an anti-American Viet Nam policy protest meeting in Montreal's Dominion Square Friday.

The students, from McGill, Sir George Williams, and Montreal Universities, marched down the Peel Street sidewalks to the square where they heard former British Guiana premier, Cheddi Jagan, call the United States "bandits."

About 2,000 law enforcement officers and national guardsmen were on duty for possible outbreaks.

'DARK DAY'

Earlier, Oakland Mayor John C. Houshman vowed the march would be blocked.

LAW EGGS

Raw eggs were showered from an upper floor of Roosevelt University onto Chicago's Michigan Avenue as rival groups marched on the sidewalk. The pro and con forces scuffled over a picket sign.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., a float depicting opposition to the war was overturned—and air let out of its tires—a few hours before it was to join a University of Michigan homecoming parade.

AGENTS READY

Hundreds of pickets demonstrated at the armed forces induction centre in New York. Three-hundred demonstrators marched and chanted in front of an induction centre in Chicago's loop.

Federal agents were reported to have circulated among the New York demonstrators, ready to take action if any of the protesters destroyed their draft cards.

Red Boss Captured

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian Communist boss D. N. Aidit, object of a widespread manhunt for his participation in the abortive leftist attempt to seize power, is reported to have been arrested in central Java.

Several newspapers said Aidit, chief of the Indonesian Communist party, was arrested by army troops in Jogjakarta on Thursday.

Jogjakarta is the place where number of leftists fled following collapse of the power grab Oct. 1.

DEMAND DEATH

Demonstrators participating in wild protests against the rebellion throughout Indonesia have demanded death for the Communist leader.

Indonesia has also repudiated the Chinese and Cuban embassies here for not flying their flags at half-staff during mourning last week for six generals killed during the abortive coup attempt against President Sukarno Oct. 1.

Now, she will get in touch with the Californian, if she can, and find out if he is a long-lost member of the family. Red tape will have to be cut to reach him, because the event that brought his name into the newspapers was his conviction for his part in the gang rape of a policeman's daughter.

Rare Name in News

Hunt for Relative Not a Happy One

The uniting of relatives over the space of many miles and years can be an occasion of delicious joy, or of sorrow.

If a Duncan woman finds a missing relative in Los Angeles, the happiness will be tempered with sadness.

She told the Colonist in a letter she noticed in a newspaper article a teen-age boy in California had the same, unusual, name as her father, who came to North America from his European homeland many years ago.

Cubans Stream Into Florida

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—The Coast Guard shepherded five more boatloads of Cuban refugees across the Florida straits to freedom Friday, bringing to 325 the number of persons who have joined the exodus from Cuba.

Philip Sorry For Damage At Airport

PERTH, Scotland (AP)—Prince Philip, personally piloting his plane on a flight from Milan, Italy, tore up turf along the runway in landing Friday night at Scoon Airport near here.

"I'm sorry for making a mess of your runway," he told airport officials and ground crew members.

Prince Philip had made a perfect landing in the Andover plane, but as he taxied to one of the main hangars the plane's wheels tore large pieces of turf from the edge of the runway.

For the last two days, Philip was in Milan attending a British week exhibition. Queen Elizabeth planned to join her husband and spend the weekend shooting on the moors near Perth.

U.S. Production Slows Down

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—U.S. industrial production declined in September for the first time in 10 months, the government has reported.

The Federal Reserve Board, the U.S. central bank, said its index of industrial production dropped one per cent last month, placing output back at about the same level as in June.

Labor Congress Supports NDP

Troops Clear Barriers From Capital

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—The Dominican capital was an integrated city once again Friday as inter-American force troops and trucks cleared sandbags and barbed wire entanglements from the streets and filled in anti-tank pits.

The troops took down the so-called checkpoints they had established throughout the city since their arrival last April.

The actions reunited the city for the first time since the start of the civil war last April 24. Purpose of the barricades and checkpoints was to keep the rival Dominican factions from clashing.

Reds Inflict Heavy Losses

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong rebels ambushed a South Vietnamese patrol of 100 men and inflicted heavy casualties, a military spokesman said today. But Vietnamese troops outflanked the guerrillas in another clash.

Liberal or NDP Majority Is Socialism—Thompson

CAMROSE, Alta. (CP) — A majority Liberal government will put Canada into the arms of socialism as fast as the New Democratic Party would, Robert Thompson, national Social Credit leader, said Friday.

He told a public dinner attended by about 100 persons in Camrose that both Canada's old-line parties have deserted their traditional principles.

Lester Pearson's government, he said, was essentially the same as Canada had under John Diefenbaker. Both embraced "welfare-socialism."

ALTERNATIVE

He said Social Credit is the alternative to the "socialistic tendencies" of the major parties.

"There are no national parties in Canada today," Mr. Thompson said. "The only vote that until they get back to principles."

"It is time to stand up and be counted for the things you believe are right," Mr. Thompson said. "The only vote that will be lost in the election is the vote of the person who stays home or the vote of the person who votes for a party when he knows its principles are wrong."

His audience applauded when he asked if Canada "wouldn't be a better place to live in if the Ottawa government were like Alberta's."

He charged Prime Minister Pearson with calling an election "even his own caucus was against" on the basis of a private organization's opinion poll that said he would get 165 seats.

"It seems ridiculous he took it seriously," Mr. Thompson said. "The same poll said I wouldn't take Red Deer (Mr. Thompson's riding)."

He said one thing he had been most ashamed of in the House of Commons was the way conservative MPs from Alberta "berated and misrepresented the province and its Social Credit government."

The Conservatives "insist on making Parliament a political arena instead of a place for carrying out the responsibilities for which they were elected."

Lack of support from Alberta's 14 Conservative MPs, Mr. Thompson said, resulted in the Conservatives not getting its fair share of federal hospital insurance grants nor of federal tax-sharing arrangements.

He said he believes the majority of provincial premiers didn't want the federal medical care insurance scheme, "but went along with it because they could see it would save them millions of dollars."

Only Premier Manning was willing to stand up and oppose the scheme on principle, Mr. Thompson said.

"He told students in Camrose that if Mr. Pearson had waited five days to call the election the students would have had their voting rights, since most of them would have been on the campuses."

"But our whole electoral system is antiquated and should be changed. With a permanent voters list everyone would carry a card and be able to vote anywhere in the country."

At his car here he was met by two Camrose teachers who asked him when he expected Social Credit will be able to form a Canadian government.

"At the election after this," Mr. Thompson replied.

Hormone Therapy Sufficient To Treat Endometriosis

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you please explain endometriosis, what causes it, the symptoms, and treatment? — P.W.

We'll have to start with the endometrium. That is the inner lining of the uterus, and a very special type of tissue. In response to the cyclic variation in female hormones, the endometrium sloughs off, and then a new lining is created, ready for a pregnancy if one occurs. The menstrual flow represents the process of the endometrium being discarded.

In some women, some of this tissue manages to get through the Fallopian tubes and become implanted on the outside of the uterus instead of the inside.

MONTHLY CYCLE

However, it is still the same kind of tissue, and still responds to the monthly cycle of hormone changes, attempting to respond by sloughing off, but unable to succeed because of its location on the wrong side of the uterus. This is endometriosis.

The chief symptom is increasingly painful menstrual cycles, usually in women past the age of 35. The symptoms disappear after menopause, because the hormone cycle ceases then. Special hormone therapy is the usual treatment.

SURGERY

Removal of the ovaries (thus creating a "surgical menopause") and putting an end to the rise and fall of hormone activity, also will end endometriosis, but this is a means to be avoided if at all possible. If a woman is close to menopause age, then there is less objection to the surgery.

Occasionally the implants of endometrial tissue are so extensive that surgery is necessary to remove them. But usually hormone therapy is sufficient.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I am 65 and very active in home and garden. My left leg from knee to ankle is practically black with varicose veins. Is it advisable to cut down on physical activities? Eating my feet gives some relief. E. E.

A reasonable amount of activity shouldn't harm you, but be careful not to injure the vein area. Wounds don't heal well, and besides injury can make the original problem worse. Yes, elevating the feet from time to time will help. Have you had your doctor evaluate your condition to see whether surgery would afford substantial relief? A supportive stocking will give you some relief while you are active.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain cause and treatment for conjunctivitis. — C.K.

Let's make that plural — causes.

Conjunctivitis is inflammation of the outer lining of the eye, or conjunctiva. This can result from several causes: Bacterial infection is one, more often called "pink eye" and highly contagious. Treatment is based on antibiotics and isolation until the infection is subdued.

Other causes include virus infection; allergic irritation, such as with hay fever; irritation from wind or dust or bugs; irritation from chemical fumes. Treatment depends on which cause is found, but the basic aim is to avoid the irritant.

Newspaper Boys Landed by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Former paper boy Lester B. Pearson sent a message of congratulations Friday to Canadian newsboys today on national newspaper boy day.

The job done by newsboys is an integral part of the complex process of maintaining an informed nation, Mr. Pearson said.

Must Convince Ourselves

New Self-Confidence Urged by NDP Chief

TORONTO (UPI) — New Democratic Party leader Tommy Douglas Friday urged his supporters to adopt a new spirit of self-confidence in the ability of their party to win the Nov. 8 election.

Mr. Douglas, speaking at a luncheon held by the Toronto area council of the New Democratic Party, said the party faithful "must convince ourselves and our own people we can win."

SETBACKS

He admitted the NDP has suffered setbacks over the years and could "have an inhibition it cannot quite get over" about the party's chances in the upcoming election.

"The time has come to leap over any such inhibition," Mr. Douglas said.

UNDECIDED

The NDP leader pointed out that 3,500,000 votes are undecided which way they will cast their ballots.

He stressed for the first time the NDP has "an arithmetical chance" to form the next government should two-thirds of the undecided voters back their party.

TURNOUTS BETTER

Mr. Douglas told his audience, composed of local NDP candidates and officials, that attendance at party rallies and speeches across the country has far exceeded the turnouts during the 1963 campaign.

The former Saskatchewan premier said crowds in many locations have been eight or nine times greater than two years ago.

The NDP leader was unable to contain his enthusiasm about the "high calibre of candidates" representing the party from all sections of Canadian life.

Mr. Douglas described his party as a psychiatrist running in this election. "And Parliament needs one badly," he joked.

LIBERALS LAG

The NDP leader did not show equal confidence in the progress made by the Liberal campaign.

"The appeal by Mr. Pearson for a majority government has not caught fire," he said.

Longtime Resident Dies

Long-time Victoria resident, Mrs. Mary MacPherson Semple, 68, of 3365 Shelbourne, died here Friday.

Mrs. Semple was born in Rotheray, Scotland, and had been a resident of Victoria since 1912.

She is survived by a son, Charles A. Semple, 3989 Century Road; a daughter, Mrs. Joan M. Bates, 1618 Cedar; two brothers, J. A. B. and T. M. Crawford, and a sister, Mrs. E. Hills, all of Victoria.

Mrs. Semple was a member of St. Aidan's United Church and the W.A. of the Colwood Institute.

Funeral services will be held in Hayward's Funeral Chapel at 1 p.m., Tuesday with Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiating.

Interment will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

PRIME MINISTER • PREMIER MINISTRE

As a former "paper boy" I am particularly pleased to join in the recognition being given on National Newspaperboy Day to all young Canadians whose task it is to deliver our newspapers.

The job done by news-boys is an integral part of the complex process of maintaining an informed nation. I believe we sometimes overlook the importance of your service to thousands of Canadian homes—often long before dawn. The rewards include valuable experience in operating your own business: self-confidence achieved by meeting and dealing with people; the dependability and responsibility news-boys acquire. There are few school-day vocations that offer such a combination of training, experience and discipline.

I congratulate all of you for a job well done.

Cuban Speech Boycotted

U.S. Walks Out For First Time

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.S. delegation walked out on Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa Friday to show disapproval of his speech in which he denounced U.S. policy in Vietnam and demanded independence for Puerto Rico.

It was the first time the United States had boycotted a General Assembly speech, delegation sources said.

Commonwealth Mission?

U.K. Makes Effort To Stall Rhodesia

LONDON (UPI) — The British government Friday was ready to send a Commonwealth peace mission to Rhodesia if the move is approved by the territory's Premier Ian Smith.

In Salisbury, Mr. Smith called a meeting of all parliamentary members of the ruling Rhodesian front party to discuss the crucial issue of independence.

Prime Minister Wilson asked Australian Premier Sir Robert Menzies to lead the Commonwealth peace mission in an 11th hour effort to dissuade Rhodesia from making a unilateral declaration of independence.

Smith said Thursday his cabinet had arrived at a decision but he refused to disclose the results of the deliberations.

A leading national newspaper poll in England reports 82 per cent of the British people back Wilson's condition that independence for Rhodesia be granted only if the predominantly Negro population was given majority representation.

DEMAND WITHDRAWN

In Brighton, Conservative party leaders at an annual conference persuaded Lord Salisbury to withdraw his demand that the Tories declare their "total opposition" to punitive sanctions against Rhodesia should the colony declare its independence.

Indian Fire Rakes Pakistanis

KARACHI (UPI) — Pakistan charged Friday that Indian troops, using artillery and small arms fire, raked Pakistan positions in two separate regions of the much-riddled cease-fire line.

The Pakistani spokesman said the Indians began firing "without provocation" Thursday. United Nations observers from both sides conferred for two hours and told the Indians to "stop firing," the spokesman said.

Press Protest Magazine Law

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Inter-American Press Association, expressing "profound concern" at recent Canadian legislation to aid Canadian magazines against foreign competition, has appealed for its repeal at the next session of Parliament.

'National' Parties

THE LIBERAL ELECTION song that only that party can provide a "national" government is like a long-playing record whose tune is badly out of tone.

In the last Parliament, for instance, both Liberal and Conservative parties each had representation from nine out of the ten provinces, which would suggest that the two major political groups are spread over the country. It is worth noting, however, that of the 48 prairie seats the Liberals held only a mere fraction, three to be precise, which does not indicate a "national" claim of worthwhile proportions in these regions.

And in the non-provincial ridings of the Yukon and Northwest Territories the two seats there were held by the Conservatives. So that even if in Opposition the latter outreached the geographical range of political party preference.

It is by the favor of Quebec, of course, that the Liberals affect to claim nation-wide recognition, the provinces beyond its boundaries apparently not being of equal ranking in their estimation. This has always been a special preserve catered to by the Liberals, yet even so no fewer than 28 out of Quebec's 75 seats were represented in the last Parliament by other parties.

It is the current Liberal claim that the Conservatives are now "closed out" of Quebec, an assumption liable to be rudely dispelled when the votes are counted on November 8. It would be passing strange indeed if many Quebec voters did not view the recent scandals involving the Pearson administration as severely damaging to the image of their province.

There is, also, another of the federal parties beginning to think of itself in "national" terms. The NDP leader, Mr. Douglas, has been studying what is termed the uncommitted vote and has come to the conclusion that if his party won 75 per cent of this vote it could form the government.

This is a rosy thought also, especially since in the last parliamentary standings the NDP had representatives from only three out of the ten provinces. The truth is that only the Conservatives and the Liberals can claim with any validity to be national parties, as has been the case over all the years to date.

And no prerogative in this respect rests with the Liberals alone.

Our Native Land

INDIANS AT ALERT BAY—members of the Nimpkish band of the Kwakiutl people—are hard at work on a centennial project which will be unique in this country when it is completed next year. It is a ceremonial lodge house.

Huge, hand-hewn timbers three feet thick are supported by exquisitely carved Thunderbird totems, and the whole structure covers an impressive 3,500 feet of floor space.

It is a splendid example of the old Indian building art, and authentic in every detail. It will survive to see the celebration of the tri-centennial of this country.

But what makes it a true achievement and invests it with singular significance is that its builders give their time and talent without thought of monetary compensation. This work is a measure of their love of country and pride of race. What other community can match this sort of contribution to Canada's year of celebration? No vast stadium, no towering monument, no portrait of the triumph of our progress can better represent the spirit that builds a nation.

Elsewhere, planners and politicians argue the merits of this or that project to mark confederation. Decisions must wait upon the conclusion of debate. And because of this procrastination time is running out.

In this Greater Victoria area we have had an illustration of the effect of rivalries, first over the selection of a suitable commemorative scheme; and then, with a sports complex chosen, the impasse over a site. At last there appears to be unanimity in the approval of a sort of neutral ground: a sports stadium on the University of Victoria campus.

But it is doubtful if the argument is over. Who will pay the maintenance, for example? How would responsibility be divided? Will the municipalities quibble over shares? When will construction start?

Without acceleration of decisions in a dozen directions we run the risk here of losing a generous government contribution to our centennial project because it won't be completed in time.

There is no such dilemma for the Indians at Alert Bay.

The Final Link

THE MARVELS of this century have been manifold. Space vehicles roam the skies, science and medical research have produced wonders, amenities never before dreamed of are common to most households, but outstanding among the facets of modern civilization has been the extension of news gathering agencies that bring awareness of happenings everywhere to the doorsteps of the home.

As the accompanying cartoon illustrates this communicative machinery is global in scope and effort, and the final and vital link in this long chain that keeps readers informed of the events of the day—local, provincial, national and international—is the newspaperboy who brings his papers to the intimacy of immediate and close personal attention. Without him a community would feel bereft.

Today it is therefore, all across this country, that he becomes the focus of interest as National Newspaperboy Day is observed in recognition of his valuable role.

It is a role also that in addition to the important function of putting "the world on your doorstep," serves to develop the innate qualities of youth for the stern and challenging future which he must meet as an adult citizen.

The carrier boy is usually gay of mien and carries out his daily task with the aplomb of his years, but his is nevertheless a serious mission that serves him well. The training inherent in the service he performs emphasizes the virtues of diligence, prudence and business acumen. He becomes in fact a "little businessman," keeping his own accounts and records and absorbing the fundamentals of responsibility and the worth of private enterprise.

His newspaper route fashions him for the mature tasks that lie ahead of him as he grows into manhood, and he becomes the better qualified to face the future thereby. As we have noted he brings the world to your doorstep, and he fully warrants the accolade being accorded him today.

The World on Your Doorstep

Communist China

Army 'Guidance' in Commerce

By SHAUN HERRON

HONG KONG is a Chinese community and it is dirty and dishonest. Why then is the visitor's first impression of Communist China one of cleanliness and honesty? Is it because it is Communist? Russia is Communist and it has problems of dirt and dishonesty. The experts, K. S. Karol says in a recent "New Statesman," always tell him "cleanliness, honesty and disinterestedness are inherent in the Chinese character."

Mr. Karol is reporting that conclusions he has drawn from an 18-week tour of Communist China. It is worth while to check his tourist's findings against evidence drawn from sustained and expert study of the Chinese press, official publications and intelligence reports, by scholars who, unlike Mr. Karol, have no need of intermediaries.

Mr. Karol believes Chinese Communist experience before, during and since the revolution—now celebrating its 10th anniversary—has made its system more flexible and productive than the Russian system. He found in the 26 factories he visited a remarkable degree of enthusiasm for quality over quantity and a measure of autonomy that surprised and obviously pleased him. To all inquiries about this autonomy he got the same reply: "Our workers have sufficient political consciousness to understand the principle of 'to each according to his work'."

He found—as all others have found—that the thoughts of Mao Tse-tung are the key to everything that goes well. One government official whom he describes as "sophisticated and well-briefed," told him that "in the places where the thoughts of President Mao are correctly applied, the rice harvest has greatly increased." It was, he says, "no good reminding them that men are not saints." But his own conclusion is that the Chinese Communist society is a contemporary experiment in puritan ethics in which "there is no profit motive. No one seems to get a commission on sales and no one accepts the smallest tip." On balance, he has decided that the Chinese system is working well.

Yet there seems another point of view. In 1963 a campaign was launched for "learning; the spirit of the army." Last year the practical shape of this learning process was publicly admitted. Political agencies that had existed since 1957 to bring the party presence into every segment of the nation's economic life had been duplicated.

These duplicate agencies spread, first from the provincial centres to the large municipalities, down to the counties, with representatives, "political guides," in individual business enterprises. They differ from the older agencies in one important particular: They are manned entirely by demobilized soldiers. It is freely admitted in the press that soldiers know nothing about business. "But they will learn."

The word that does not appear in the Chinese press when it discusses the inadequacies of the business community is corruption. But the army is the most austere puritan instrument in the nation, most intensively schooled in the virtues of Maoist thought, and most selflessly faithful to it.

Why should it be set as a watchdog over existing party agencies already dogging the business community, unless some world-famous has set in to the party faithful said the business community? While the word corruption is avoided in the press, "waste" and "failure to guard public property" are mentioned frequently.

In one significant instance, however, Yang Shu-tan, one of the deputy leaders of the new political agency (the finance and commerce political department) and a former military commander of Canton, did spell it out in precise terms. In the speech in which the existence of the new political-business agencies was announced he spoke of capitalist ways in management, profit seeking, corruption, theft and speculation.

In the People's Daily (Peking) Li Hsien-shien, the man who appears to be the real head of the new political department, is quoted as saying that "the market is the front line, where proletarianism and bourgeois class." The bourgeois try to tempt the proletarian.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

John Brown led a party of 13 white men and five Negroes in a raid on a federal arsenal at Harper's Ferry, Va., on Oct. 16, 1859.

1859—In order to seize arms for his dream of a mountain stronghold in which escaped slaves might defend themselves. The following day he and nine others were captured and seven killed by U.S. marines commanded by Robert E. Lee. Brown was hanged Dec. 2 for treason, conspiracy and murder. His action was that of a fanatic and did not affect the politics of slavery much, except for providing the great marching song, John Brown's Body.

1855—Bishops Latimer and Ridley were burned at the stake.

1750—The third Eddystone lighthouse went into operation. First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1915—France declared war on Bulgaria; British submarines sank five German transports in the Baltic Sea; Italian forces advanced on the western shore of Lake Garda.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—Anthony Eden flew to Egypt to discuss the defence of Egypt with General Wavell; HMS Liverpool was announced to have been damaged by aircraft torpedoes in the Mediterranean; Western Union cable service from New York to London was broken off for nine hours; Brig. E. W. Sansom was promoted major-general and appointed to command the Third Canadian Division.

And one will see her eyes for gold,
And one will barter them for bread,
And one will watch their Beside the looking glass, unwed.

A hundred years will softly pass
Yet on the Tipperary hills
The shadows of a king and queen
Will darken on the daffodils.

Soviet Economists

Looking to the West

By DAVID FLOYD from London

I CAN remember the time, in the decade before the Second World War, when it seemed that the Russians were the inventors and the sole practitioners of economic planning.

"Russia has a plan!" cried the Communist propagandists and explained to their listeners how, while the planless capitalist world was floundering around in a sea of crisis and confusion, the Soviet economy was striding forward from success to success.

Five-year plan followed five-year plan, and there seemed to be no limit to the millions of tons of steel and coal that Soviet industry could, and would, produce, thanks to the "planned economy."

In recent years, however, it has become increasingly apparent that Soviet economists and their fellows in other Communist countries have begun to realize that planning is not everything in economic life; that merely to have a grand plan embracing every aspect and enjoying all the authority of the government to enforce it does not ensure the efficient, or even the rational, running of an economy.

It might, it is true, make possible the achievement of quantitative targets for the output of certain specific and relatively straightforward items, like steel or cement. But it was not, it seemed, capable of ensuring the fulfilment of all the complex needs of a modern society, and certainly not of ensuring that those needs were fulfilled with the maximum efficiency and economy.

Some of the stories related by Russian economists and industrial managers to illustrate the inefficiency of the Soviet system surprised even critics of that system.

A factory manager from Khar'kov said he had had to hire a lorry to transport all the forms needed to order a particular product. There were stories of plants, situated on opposite sides of the same street in a provincial town, having to communicate with each other through Moscow.

One prominent and highly respected Russian economist predicted that, if the country's bureaucratic apparatus continued to grow as it had done in previous years, over half the 220 million population would be engaged in administration by 1980.

For several years now the growing awareness of the shortcomings of Russia's rigid and highly centralized planning system has prompted political leaders and economists alike to propose reforms, both at national and provincial levels. Under Mr. Khrushchev's rule the whole administration of industry was reorganized on a territorial basis under the direction of economic councils.

Several economists, of whom Professor Liberman, of Khar'kov University, attracted most attention, have proposed devices for providing factory managers and workers with greater incentives to work, not only long and hard but efficiently and well. These proposals have included a "profitability" index for industrial plants, the introduction of competition between plants producing the same goods, the establishment of a change on capital invested (not, of course, to be confused with the capitalist concept of "interest") and the free operation of the law of supply and demand.

Under Khrushchev the debate reached no conclusion. But since his fall from power his successors have taken a long and serious look at the economy and finally announced their decisions at the central committee meeting of the Soviet Communist Party, held at the end of September, 1965.

Their answer, as explained by Prime Minister Kossygin in a long speech, is a compromise. But, none the less, it is a quiet move in the direction of greater freedom of action and scope for initiative on the part of factory managements.

There is to be no retreat from the principle and practice of a centrally planned and directed economy. Indeed, centralization will be reaffirmed by the abandonment of Mr. Khrushchev's economic councils and the re-establishment of industrial ministries responsible for the whole country. In this respect there is to be something of a return to the organizational set-up that existed before Khrushchev turned it upside down.

But, within the framework of the national plan, each enterprise will now have a certain amount of autonomy in the choosing of the goods it makes, in the use it makes of its wages fund, in its use of capital resources and in the treatment of its employees.

Whereas in the past managements have been judged purely on their ability to fulfill targets expressed in terms of quantity, they will in future be judged by cost and quality.

There is no reason to doubt the Soviet leaders when they protest that these reforms do not amount to a restoration of "capitalism" in the Soviet Union. There will remain the world of difference between the strictly controlled Soviet economic system and the economic systems operating in Western Europe and America.

Nevertheless, the motives to which the Soviet leaders are having recourse, in their efforts to put some real life into their economic system, are certainly "capitalist" motives—the pursuit of personal or collective gain for personal or collective effort.

Whether the latest reforms will produce the required results is not something that can be predicted. According to Mr. Kossygin, pilot schemes operated already have been successful.

But it is a measure of the compromise which has had to be reached between the technocrats and the party machine that the independence now offered on a wide front is much less than that enjoyed by these pilot schemes. Moreover, the figures Kossygin gave suggest that the Soviet system is so inefficient that almost any device must produce results.

It is difficult, therefore, to know whether to welcome the report or not. Perhaps any increase in freedom, however limited, whether for individuals or for factories, is to be welcomed.

plorable" in which you vilify a small segment of the CBC program "This Hour Has Seven Days."

The section you deplore was indeed a satire, but not a satire directed against the Pope, rather on the practices of American TV networks and their mad ratings worship.

Before you "send packing" the producers of this program, you might inform yourself about another section of the program: the section dealing with the Yukon Indian Affairs superintendent who was fired from his job and heavily fined for using racial slurs to enable Indians to build themselves houses. The fact that the federal government gives "unlimited funds for relief" but no funds for housing outside reservations, refuses to allow indoor plumbing to be installed in houses for Indians "because it would establish a precedent"—here is a facet of our "Canadian ethos" which you say the CBC should reflect.

Historic Homes

It is hard to see the point behind your editorial on the Historic Buildings Foundation. It is true that we should attempt to preserve only those buildings historically or architecturally desirable, and preferable for a use other than merely museums. But surely this is obvious.

Your editorial was inaccurate in some points, and incomplete in its place-listings (for example, how could you not include the Craigflower Manor?). Is the public (and are you) aware that the Pearce House was saved, to form part of an apartment project, by individual efforts? That some sort of apartment building has been proposed for the land in front of Craigflower Manor (already lemming in by a hot dog stand and a model)? That it may be impossible already to save the O'Reilly house for a general public purpose? That the architecturally significant Aylard house was destroyed by the provincial government? That the Maison Blanche, still in use and maintained after a hundred years, is to be replaced by another apartment, thus further marred the Cathedral Hill environment?

As for the Emily Carr House, it is a very old and unusually graceful house, with real historic connections from early Victoria. It might be saved for a useful purpose at an estimated cost of $15,000 for purchase and $15,000 for restoration. If the B.C. government can spend $15,000 for a non-historic, non-Canadian choco-choo train to set up at Fort Steele, surely some way can be found to preserve real history in Victoria.

Of course Emily Carr had a closer connection (later on) to the House of All Saints on Simcoe Street. But that is being maintained, in use, and is labelled. The Historic Buildings Foundation would justify itself even if it simply acted as a watchdog to preserve some of our history. Fortunately, it seems to be doing better than that.

Many of us are getting tired of seeing real history torn down, only to have shabby cottages, pseudo "bits of old England," or gimcracks for unknowing tourists substituted for the real thing.

Not Playthings

In the Colonist there was a picture of a child holding a tiny kitten which, the caption said, "she uses as a doll." The kitten being four weeks' old.

The child should be taught that animals are not playthings. They are living creatures and can be fatally injured by constant mauling when they are small. A four-week-old kitten should not be handled at all.

I learned by sad experience not to give kittens to children unless I knew they had been taught how to care for them. For the sake of other helpless kittens and puppies I hope you will print this.

PTA Responsibility

This is just a note, prompted by the appeal made to PTA by "Mother of Four," Sept. 28, for all of us to think of how to bring about cessation of hostilities in Viet Nam—and other places.

I have never belonged to PTAs, not having children, but it has seemed to me that it should be their responsibility to consider all children everywhere, not only their own, and to introduce to children a wider vision than their own district.

A shocking example of PTA narrow-mindedness is this affair of banning books in Vancouver. Do "freedom of speech" and "freedom of thought" and "democracy" mean nothing to them at all? What a terrible influence these people are on the future adults.

Quick Word and Handshake for Scores

John D Exudes Charm

By WILLIAM THOMAS

John Diefenbaker turned on the charm last night as he stepped from the platform to greet a host of old friends. Many had waited hours for the chance of a handshake or a moment discussing the "old days back in Prince Albert."

At one point it seemed as if he were running for a Victoria seat by the number of his Prince Albert constituents who have moved to retire here.

First to greet Mr. Diefenbaker on his arrival at the Armories were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chisholm.

Mrs. Chisholm explained she was active in the Prince Albert Conservative Women's Club when Mr. Diefenbaker left his law practice to try for a seat in the Saskatchewan Liberal stronghold.

STABBED BY CONVICT

Her husband who was employed in the penitentiary became involved in an incident that brought the Diefenbakers and Chisholms even closer together.

Mrs. Chisholm was stabbed in the neck by an insane convict and his wife recalls it was Mr. Diefenbaker who was among the first to call offering help.

GIVEN HELP

"He put his car at our disposal and Olive Diefenbaker made us a cake. It was a long time ago but it's as clear as yesterday to us."

As soon as he walked in the hall Mr. Diefenbaker was ready with questions about those early campaigns. Mrs. Chisholm had gained her political experience campaigning for Arthur Meighen and travelled with him in his campaign party on one occasion.

Another Victoria resident,

Mrs. D. C. F. MacArthur, said she had heard four Canadian prime ministers speak in Victoria, R. B. Bennett, Arthur Meighen, Robert Borden and Mr. Diefenbaker.

She became active in politics when the government gave women the franchise in 1917. "It was only for those who had men serving overseas and we felt quite superior."

HEARTY EXTROVERT

Mr. Meighen is recalled as a hearty extrovert who seemed at his best in good company. Mrs. MacArthur said she met him and R. B. Bennett in Calgary on many occasions. But her favorite is John Diefenbaker. Asked why she credits his dynamic manner and the fact he has time to talk to everyone.

PRELUDE TO VICTORY

The pattern was repeated many times over as people found their way in to the tight circle around John Diefenbaker for a quick word and a handshake.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that in 1957 Victoria had given him the "prelude to victory" if he can multiply these friendships across the nation he may repeat the process.

No Reason To Go To Rhodesia

Mr. Diefenbaker said in an interview last night he could see no point in a Canadian prime minister going to Rhodesia to talk with Prime Minister Ian Smith.

"We made our position clear at the Commonwealth prime minister's conference. Unless Ian Smith changes his mind the situation can only get worse."

Hated Crowds

VANCOUVER (CP)—Major, a seven-year veteran of the city police mounted squad, was retired from active service and sold this week for $210 to a North Vancouver family. Insp. Bud Errington said Major developed a dislike for crowds.

Water Export

"The U.S. is finding that water is one of its most valuable and becoming one of its scarcest resources, and we have, well, lots of water."

Mr. Hamilton added the proviso to his approval that Canada be guaranteed markets for industrial products.

He was referring to the Parsons Plan, an American proposal that would cost more than $100,000,000. It involves building a series of canals to carry fresh water from northern Canada to arid parts of the United States and Mexico.

Mr. Pearson said "we will be discussing this with the U.S. who are very anxious to work out arrangements by which some of our water resources are moved south."

Mr. Diefenbaker was emphatic when he denied the validity of such a scheme.

In his CBC free-time broadcast Mr. Pearson touched on pensions promising to pay more than $100 a month to elderly people with no other income.

This was naturally a key item in Mr. Diefenbaker's speech as more than half his audience were over middle age.

He lashed Mr. Pearson's aide Tom Kent who was appointed to lead the Liberals' war on poverty.

He drew prolonged applause when he said "Tom Kent's pay was raised from $12,000 to $25,000 when he got that job. He has won his personal war on poverty but it's your turn now."

Mr. Diefenbaker promised to remove the means test for all pensions including those for the disabled and blind.

He said the present rate of $105 for disabled and $125 for blind people is inadequate.

The prime minister branded Mr. Diefenbaker's stand as "irresponsible." He added, "It's so simple to say, all right, you gave them $75 we'll give them $100, but I am not going to auction off the people's money for that sort of thing."

Mr. Diefenbaker got his licks in with a touch of his old oratorical fire by telling a stilled audience he would bring them aid. His closing words on the subject: "Need requires it, Compassion will sanction it."

Injured

NICOSIA (Reuters)—A Canadian soldier was slightly injured when Greek and Turkish Cypriots exchanged shots near Limnitis, northwest Cyprus.

A United Nations statement said a member of the 4th Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery suffered a slightly bruised face during the shooting but later returned to duty.

tional things that maintain and preserve freedom.

"And today we have dissension, uncertainty, fear, suspicion, fear of one race against another."

Election of the Conservatives, he said, would mean:

- The immediate calling of a confederation conference with federal and provincial government leaders, with leading Canadian citizens and representatives of various organizations.
- "We would sit down as long as necessary in the interests of this nation, meeting in faith and trust to bring about changes that in the light of 100 years have proven necessary."
- New measures for education.
- "We must give opportunities to our young men and women to qualify themselves so they can go ahead."
- "When in office we doubled the per capita grant in aid to universities from $1 to $2. We intend to increase it to $5."
- Full consideration to medicare.
- "Provided," the Conservative leader added, "there is provision for freedom of choice and no regimentation."
- Public housing and urban renewal.

Not only assistance to those who build new homes, but also to those who wish to renovate old homes," he promised.

of shipbuilding in this nation."

Mr. Diefenbaker said past accomplishments of his government — "and we often stood alone at the time" — for the progress of Canada are now often put forward by the Liberals as their achievement.

He numbered among these achievements, expanded trade, including the sale of wheat to Communist countries; new economic horizons, including the opening up of the north and the development of economically retarded regions in the rest of Canada.

"And we were honest."

He said, "The prime minister says he wants a majority government."

"After the mess he has made with the minority government, imagine what would happen with a majority to trample over us."

He concluded with his prediction:

"Everywhere we are going to increase our membership, with one exception—Saskatchewan."

All members of Parliament in the last House in Mr. Diefenbaker's home province were Conservative.

Seven Questions Asked

Marcoux Disclosures Spark John D's Probe

By RON COLLISTER

Tory chief John Diefenbaker reached Victoria Friday, hurling more questions at the government about the sensational Marcoux disclosures and demanding a public review of his first rebel, Douglas Harkness.

Enroute here, Mr. Diefenbaker demanded that the Government throw light on the income tax problems of John Doyle, the multi-millionaire who is a key figure in the Soerod Guy Marcoux's book.

According to Mr. Marcoux, $25,000 was "floating around" when six Creditistes were making a deal with the Liberals, after the April, 1963, election to support them and put them in power.

CREDITISTES BLAMED

Mr. Diefenbaker has said that if it had not been for this action by the Creditistes, he would have tried to hold on as prime minister after that election.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who has asked Prime Minister Pearson and Transport Minister Pickersgill, to answer seven questions about the affair, added this new question Thursday night:

TAX TROUBLE

"What settlements have been made between the department of national revenue and Mr. Doyle on his personal income and the amount owing by Canadian Jewell, his company?"

He said that Revenue Minister Benson could answer this question.

THREE MILLION

There is a file in the Exchequer Court of Canada with a claim that Doyle owes more than $3,000,000 in income taxes.

Mr. Diefenbaker is now behaving like a man who believes he has a major new issue for the election.

He came here after a huge rally in Calgary which drew more than 3,500 people, with many turned away.

At that meeting, he charged that the Pearson government is in office by wrong-doing, if the Marcoux disclosures are true.

And he put the choice facing Canadian voters on Nov. 8 like this:

"A vote for the Liberals is a vote for an open season for organized crime in Canada."

On arrival here, Mr. Diefenbaker said he had nothing more to say — yet — about his seven questions to Mr. Pearson and Mr. Pickersgill.

"I'm waiting for the answers," he said.

THE QUESTIONS

The seven questions are:

- Did Mr. Pickersgill assist in any way in drafting a statement that was signed by six Creditistes? That, he said, was an easy question.
- Did he discuss it with a Mr. Ducharme at any time before it was presented? Mr. Ducharme, he said, was the man who translated the statement into French.
- (In news reports, a man named Hubert Ducharme has been described as the Montreal lawyer for Mr. Doyle, a friend of Mr. Pickersgill and Newfoundland Premier Joey Smallwood.)
- Was Mr. Pickersgill on a plane owned by a multi-millionaire on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, April 10, 11 or 12?
- Did Mr. Pickersgill go to Quebec City on April 11 in a plane with Mr. Doyle?
- Did he have any knowledge that a Mr. Darabauer was going to be met in Quebec City?
- Did he meet with Mr. Darabauer?
- Did he meet with either Mr. Ducharme or Mr. Doyle in Montreal or Ottawa on April 10 or 11?
- Mr. Diefenbaker claimed, in Calgary and in Prince George on the way here, that the election is being held because the government was afraid to face Parliament over the Marcoux disclosures.
- The Marcoux book, he said, claims, in effect, that an episode took place "of the shadiest usurpation of power in Canadian history."
- COLLABORATION
- Mr. Diefenbaker said that Mr. Ducharme, with the collaboration of Mr. Pickersgill, prepared a draft statement in which the six Creditistes declared their support for the Liberal party.
- "One would have thought," he said, "that Mr. Pickersgill would have denied all knowledge of this."

ASSURANCE

"Mr. Pearson said: 'I have spoken to Mr. Pickersgill and he assured me that he had nothing to do, directly or indirectly, with the offer of a bribe to any MPs or anybody else.'"

Mr. Pickersgill, Mr. Diefenbaker added, had said the same in a public statement.

CHEERS IN RARS

Mr. Diefenbaker left Calgary Thursday with cheers ringing in his ears and saying his campaign is "just like '57 and '58."

Mr. Diefenbaker and Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister who broke with Mr. Diefenbaker over the nuclear arms issue in 1963, met at McCall Field airport Friday, spoke for several minutes, and shook hands.

Mr. Harkness, Conservative candidate in Calgary north, was at the airport at 8:30 a.m. to see Mr. Diefenbaker off on a flight to Prince George, B.C.

Asked if the meeting meant a reconciliation between them, Mr. Harkness replied: "Well I think it is the normal thing for a local candidate to see the party leader off."

Mr. Harkness and Mr. Diefenbaker had not appeared together in an election campaign since their disagreement.

Mr. Harkness was not present when the Conservative leader spoke at a party rally in a Calgary high school Thursday night, but he was attending a previous engagement at a farewell dinner of the Lord Strathcona's Royal Canadian Mounted Regiment, scheduled to leave for NATO duty in December.

Mr. Harkness said he was asked out to the airport by Edwin Goodman, Mr. Diefenbaker's campaign manager.

WITH CANDIDATES

"I was out there with Ballard (Ray Ballard, Conservative candidate in Calgary South) and Eldon Woolliams," Conservative candidate in the Bow River constituency.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker and himself have the same objectives, "to win as many seats as possible. This is no time to concentrate on party differences."

ELECTION TALK

"We talked about the campaign and about the election."

Mrs. Harkness was at the rally and received a mixture of applause and boos when she was introduced from the platform.

OTHERS THERE

Also on the platform was Art Smith, former PC member for Calgary South, who did not run in the 1963 election after a disagreement with Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Smith re-elected to a Calgary aldermanic post by acclamation, is not a candidate in this election. He was cheered loudly when introduced at the rally.

MORIBID INTEREST

Mr. Harkness has said recently that people seem to take "a morbid interest" in the old feud and it has been over emphasized. Asked if he still felt the same way, he replied: "Certainly."

"I would say that we got together as friends although we still differ on some matters of policy."

Militia Sought For Africa

ACCRA (Reuters)—African foreign ministers meeting in this Ghanaian capital as a prelude to next week's summit meeting have been asked to approve the formation of an African military force for ensuring peace and for "the enforcement of the rule of law."

A Swedish three-shilling Banco stamp, accidentally printed the wrong color, has been insured for $100,000.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

Here is what the Canada Pension Plan will do for people like Esther Meyer, a 50-year-old owner of a small store who makes $5,800 a year.

If Esther continues to earn this amount from her business until age 65, she and her husband, who is disabled and cannot work, can look forward to a retirement income of $104.17 from the Plan and $75 from Old Age Security—a total of $179.17 a month. When her husband receives Old Age Security, their income will be $254.17 a month.

Should Esther die anytime after 1967, having contributed until her death, her husband will receive a disabled widower's pension of $64.06 a month until he reaches age 65. At that time, or if he is already 65 when Esther dies, his pension under the Plan will be $62.50 a month plus $75 a month Old Age Security. On the death of his wife, Mr. Meyer will also be entitled to a lump sum payment of $500.

All benefits under the Plan will maintain their value. The actual benefits payable will probably be higher than those given here since benefits will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and in wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

What will the Plan cost you?

If, like Esther, you have self-employed earnings of $5,800 a year, you will pay $158.40 a year which is 3.6% of $4,400, the maximum amount upon which contributions are payable. Payment will be in instalments in the same way you pay your income tax.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

Champion Von Greg-Cyn's Commander

City Dog Wins Honors

It's a long way from Victoria to Bermuda, but Champion Von Greg-Cyn's Commander wasn't homesick as he took three awards in Bermuda dog shows this week.

The champ is a 3 1/2-year-old German shepherd owned, raised and trained by Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Iverson, 5323 West Saanich Road.

For the Iversons, the Bermuda shows are just one more example of their pet's award-attracting ability.

He climaxed a series of Vancouver Island and Mainland shows by taking best in show at the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers' Association show in Victoria in September.

Then Mr. Gregson took him to Edmonton, where he won best in show at the all-breed show, and another best in show in the working specialty event. This week, it was the Bermuda shows.

The first Victoria dog to be entered in the shows, he took a second in group, a first in group, and a best in-show award.

He will tackle one more show in Bermuda, on Saturday before flying back to Victoria.

Prowl Car Damaged Extensively

The city police's oldest prowler will be off the road for a while. It was extensively damaged in an accident Thursday night.

Police Chief J. F. Gregory said no one was injured.

The car, with more than 150,000 miles behind it, was being driven by Constable Fred Board. He said in his report that he was chasing a car in which two suspects were riding.

As he turned left from Richmond into Pembroke, the car skidded on the wet road into a parked car owned by Richard Kirk, 1768 Pembroke. There was medium damage done to the parked car.

Craft, Crew Get Dunking

The blue and white sails of a Glenlyon School sailboat took a dunking Thursday as did the two-man crew but no one was any the worse.

Headmaster H. I. F. Simpson said the school's four Flying Junior sailing craft were at practice, accompanied by a motor-equipped safety craft near the school on Beach drive when a squall dumped one of the boats. Both crewmen were equipped with life jackets and were picked up right away by the safety boat.

They'll be sailing again, next chance.

Gordon Head Meets Monday

Progress on the new community hall and swimming pool will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Gordon Head Mutual Improvement Society in Gordon Head Community Hall at 8:30 p.m., Monday.

J. L. B. WARNS

J. LLOYD BRERETON NEW DEMOCRATIC PARTY CANDIDATE FOR VICTORIA.

LIBERAL VOTES WASTED
SOME THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE MAY BE WORRIED
BY PRIME MINISTER PEARSON'S STATEMENT THAT A VOTE FOR THE NEW DEMOCRATIC PARTY IS A WASTED VOTE. BY NOW
THEY SHOULD BE AWARE THAT IT IS A VOTE FOR THE LIBERALS THAT IS WASTED.

The Liberals got into power partly because people thought Pearson a great statesman devoted to Peace, who would give Canada a new sense of purpose. This image has proved to be false.

Pearson holds a Nobel Peace Prize, gained when, with American backing, he helped the U.N. dislodge Britain and France from Suez. A good job; but he was working with the power of the USA behind him. What did he achieve later when it was necessary to stand up to the USA?

Dr. Linus Pauling, one of the world's really great men, another holder of the Nobel Peace Prize, told his audience at the University of Victoria last week that there are nine living holders of this prize. These were invited to sign a letter addressed to Lyndon Johnson, Ho Chi Minh (Prime Minister of North Viet Nam) and others, asking them to confer together to end the fighting in Viet Nam. Seven signed the letter; two would not sign it. Mr. Pearson was one of the two who refused to sign. He did not take his Peace Prize sufficiently seriously!

Another indication how Mr. Pearson has forfeited his status as an independent world figure is that when he offered himself as an arbitrator or peace maker between India and Pakistan, these countries rejected him without hesitation.

THE LIBERALS HAVE BEEN A MISERABLE FAILURE IN ALL ATTEMPTS TO PRESENT CANADA AS A WORLD POWER WITH AN INDEPENDENT STATUS.

In Victoria, Mr. D. Groos is presented to us a Liberal of high principles. This in another false image. In the 1962 election he was the Liberal candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich. He promised then (Daily Times, 14th June, 1962) that he would resign from the party if the Liberals introduced nuclear weapons. Nine months later, at the last election, he stood as Liberal candidate for Victoria, speaking in favour of nuclear warheads for Canada. We have them now on this Island at Comox.

The recent shady happenings associated with the Liberal Government in Ottawa are well known. It took our party leader, Tommy Douglas, to point up the Rivard affair in the House of Commons.

THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT HAS LOST THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PEOPLE AND SHOULD NOT BE GIVEN A MAJORITY OF ANY KIND. LET ALONE A WORKING MAJORITY.

THE MAN WE NEED

A VERY LARGE PERCENTAGE OF CANADIANS ARE CONVINCED THAT TOMMY DOUGLAS IS THE NATIONAL LEADER WHO COULD GIVE US ALL A SENSE OF PURPOSE. WHAT HE DID FOR SASKATCHEWAN HE CAN DO FOR CANADA AS A WHOLE.

We shall achieve nothing as a nation or as individuals until we elect a government and a leader who will stand up against the vested financial interests—financial groups that maintain both Liberals and Conservatives in power and which are prepared to sell our birthright to our wealthy neighbours.

VOTE FOR YOUR NEW DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE.

Minister's Idea

Youth Council Should Judge Other Youth

A Youth Council to sit as a Youth Jury in all court cases involving young people accused of breaking the law was called for Friday by Rev. Marvin

Evans, Victoria Unitarian minister.

"Their decisions would of course have no legal force," he said. "Rather they would advise the judge or magistrate regarding each case."

Basic to the creation of such organizations, said Mr. Evans, is the need for a Youth Board for the city of Victoria.

"FANTASTIC IDEA"
Two weeks ago the minister was quoted in the Colonist as saying: "A Youth Board?—Who ever heard of such a fantastic idea?"

"Apparently not many people have," Mr. Evans said Friday.
"We have had at least two major studies of the problems of our youth, and both of these reports have much to commend them."

LITTLE DONE
"So far as I can learn, although my information may be inadequate, little has been done with either of these studies."

"There are doubtless many reasons for this—lack of funds, lack of jurisdictional overlapping, lack of co-ordination, etc., etc.—but basic to our difficulty is that we have thus far approached the whole subject from the wrong perspective."

Not the middle-aged, but the youth themselves should be organized to tackle the problems.

NO GOODY-GOODIES
The Youth Board or Council
Mr. Evans has in mind "would not be a bunch of 'goodygoodies,' but truly representative."

The Council would be charged with the opportunity of surveying the total needs of the young people, drawing up a comprehensive list of these needs, constructing a time-table for their implementation and waging a continuing all-out campaign to secure the desired results.

NEW APPROACH
Mr. Evans is against "traditional" curricula:
"Back to the Bible?"
"No. Taken by itself it has no discernible effect on human conduct."

"Back to the woodshed? No.
A mixed up youngster can take almost any punishment from an adult with no discernible effect on his conduct—except perhaps a negative effect."

Where, then?
"Forward to a imaginative, creative methods befitting the potential greatness of today's young people," said Mr. Evans.

Nurses Hear Report On Congress

Sister Mary Beatrice of the Order of St. Ann was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Victoria District of Registered Nurses' Association in St.
John Ambulance Hall.

The speaker illustrated with slides her report on the program of events at the International Congress of Nursing held in Frankfurt, Germany, in June.

The conference theme, "Communication or Conflict," as Sister Mary Beatrice pointed out, is an issue which has continued to beset mankind throughout the ages. Unless people, as individuals and as groups, acquire the ability to effectively relate to one another there will continue to be disharmony among men.

Mrs. Joanne Wood commented on the Study Group conference which was held at Point No Point beginning of this month.

The three most popular topics of interest to nurses centered in the areas of psychiatry, the aged and local nursing problems.
Study groups are now being organized and the nurses in this district will be kept currently informed as further plans for these study groups are developed.

40-Member Brass Band To Give Concert Today

The 40-member Salvation Army brass band from Portland, Ore., will be heard in public concert at 8 p.m., today, in the Victoria Citadel on Pandora Street.

With them will be the Jubilaires of Portland, a tambourine precision band; also the Men's Chorus and organ soloist Major J. Ellis.

The program is billed as a Fall Festival of Music, another event to mark the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Salvation Army.

In the spirit of internationalism, the band will play Amsterdam Congress Hall as well as The Canadian, along with such Army marches as Banners and Bonnets and The Ransomed Host.

The musicians, who also be heard in the Citadel at the 11 a.m. Sunday service.

Crusade Film Slated

A three-night showing of the film The Restless Ones starts at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Central Junior High School auditorium. Purpose of the film, sponsored by a continuing committee of the Leighton Ford Crusade Campaign executive, is to depict youth as it is today and provide the Christian answer.

Britain, U.S. Plan New Link

LONDON (UPI) — Britain and the United States are planning a joint air and naval communications base as part of a wider project for Anglo-American strategic, authoritative sources said here.

The sources said negotiations have been underway for setting up the base on Diego Garcia, a 13-mile-long, four-mile-wide coral atoll in the Chagos Archipelago on the direct route from the Red Sea to Australia.

To Speak Monday

Missions Chairman Visits City

Rev. Dr. Kenneth McMillan, general secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, will speak on The Church Encounters a New Age at a supper meeting 6:15 p.m. Monday, Oct. 25, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Kirk Hall.

Since his Bible Society appointment in 1957, Dr. McMillan has travelled to the six continents of the world visiting society headquarters and mission fields of all denominations.

He is also chairman of the department of overseas missions for the Canadian Council of Churches.

The president of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Bible Society, Dr. William Klempa, invites those interested in the dinner or meeting to contact him at 382-6517.

Mother Church

St. Luke's to Mark 105th Anniversary

The 105th anniversary of the founding of the Parish of St. Luke's will be celebrated at the church at 3821 Cedar Hill Cross Road Sunday.

The first service in that area, then known as Cedar Plains, was held by Bishop Hills in 1860. The bishop appointed Rev. A. C. Garrett to be missionary in charge of the district.

The first church was built in 1862 and was succeeded by the present structure erected in 1887-88.

St. Luke's is the mother church of many churches now established in the Saanich Peninsula.

Out of its original district have been formed the parishes of St. Michael's, Royal Oak; St. Mark's, Cloverdale; St. Alban's on Ryan Street; St. George's, Cadboro Bay; St. Dunstan's, Gordon Head, and St. Peter's, Lake Hill.

Also in the St. Luke's mission field were parts of the present parishes of St. Mary's Oak Bay and St. Philip's, Eastdowne.

WELL-KNOWN CLERGY

Many well-known clergy have served the parish, including the late Bishop Wells of Cariboo, Archbishop Collinson, Archbishop Robert Connell and Canon Frederick Pike.

The present rector is Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff.

Harlem Hatred

Even Nun Suspect In Negroes' Eyes

By ROBERT BUCHHORN

The nun looked down at the little Negro girl tugging at her skirt and said softly to herself: "Honey, by the time you reach grade 7, I hope you don't hate my guts."

The nun was Sister Claire Marie of the Franciscan Sisters of Milwaukee. Sister Claire is an expert on race relations and the plain spoken story she told on herself was directed at 350 nuns and lay teachers at a meeting in Akron, Ohio, sponsored by the Catholic Interracial Council.

In her anecdote, Sister Claire said the incident happened in Harlem, New York City's Negro ghetto.

Ignored
Until the girl spoke to her, the nun said, she had been completely ignored on a walk through the area. It was then she realized that even as a nun, she was part of the white power structure in the minds of residents of Harlem and other predominantly Negro communities.

Sister Claire's argument was that a racially segregated society is an artificial one. To change this, artificial means must be used, she said.

As a starter, she urged more interracial home visits, and student exchanges. Youth in the suburbs know all about foreign nations, she said, but nothing at all about life in the Negro areas of their own city.

Even the textbooks teach of an unreal world, she said. Until a youngster learns what life is about for all people, there will be little chance of easing racial problems, she added.

PENTICTON (CP) — The Penticton Chamber of Commerce has given unanimous approval to a proposal that Okanagan Mountain, north of Naramata, and Fairview near Oliver be declared first class provincial parks.

There are about 750,000 Basques in Europe's Pyrenees Mountains, 80 per cent of them on the Spanish side of the Franco-Spanish border.

years of discord between Roman Catholic and Jew. It says all Jews cannot be blamed for Christ's crucifixion.

The bishops of Roman Catholicism gave 7-to-1 approval to the document, which also praises the spiritual values of other non-Christian faiths and rejects all discrimination — especially anti-Semitism.

By a final vote of 1,763 to 250 the bishops accepted the declaration — titled On the Church's Attitude Toward Non-Christians — for promulgation by Pope Paul as a church decree binding on all the world's Roman Catholics.

DECIDE DELETED

Although the specific mention of "decide" (God killing) was deleted from the version given final endorsement Friday the document still speaks out against any description of the Jewish people as "rejected by God or accursed."

Probably no document had aroused so much controversy at the council, and an anonymous threat against St. Peter's Basilica added an element of tension Friday.

Vatican sources told of the anonymous threat saying a bomb would explode in the Basilica before the council closes in December.

Italian police were called in at the Vatican and asked to increase their vigilance in the big square outside the basilica and at other portals leading into the 108-acre Vatican state.

No indication of the motive behind the threat was apparent, but there was some speculation it might have been connected with the conciliar document on the Jews.

Never before has any general council in 20 centuries of Roman Catholicism taken such positive stands on the Jewish and other non-Christian religions.

RESTATES DOCTRINE

While the document amounts to a restatement of existing church doctrine, it warns against any conduct that sometimes has existed—preaching or catechism instruction that could twist the gospels into an anti-Semitic interpretation.

Historic, too, are its words of respect for the beliefs of Moslems, Hindus, Buddhists and other non-Christians and its rejection of any discrimination because of race, color, condition in life or religion as "foreign to the mind of Christ."

The declaration takes passing note of the crusades against Islam in the middle ages by saying that over the centuries "quarrels and hostilities have arisen between Christians and Moslems." It urges that the past be forgotten and that "mutual understanding" move forward.

'Windfall Like 007 Thriller'

By HARRY YOUNG Business Editor
The Atlantic Acceptance

[failure was described as a "very sad affair," and the Windfall scandal as reading like a James Bond thriller," by Jean Ostiguy, president of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada.

"One of our members was the first account to suffer from the Atlantic failure," he said at a press conference. "We have an awful lot to learn from this. Why did it happen? Was it mismanagement or dishonesty?"

MANY CAUGHT
He noted that many of the most sophisticated and experienced lenders in the U.S. and Canada had been caught in the Atlantic mesh, and while this had created an unfortunate suspicion in investor confidence in Canadian financial institutions, he hoped that the lessons learnt might be useful.

"When we have gone through our investigations and have indulged in a searching self-appraisal, I believe the growth in the Canadian money market will be resumed," he said.

TORONTO EXCHANGE
"We shall certainly expect to be much more aware of the creditworthiness of borrowers."

On the other hand, Mr. Ostiguy obviously sought to detract his membership from any prime responsibility for the Windfall business.

"The trading responsibility came under the authority of the Toronto Stock Exchange, and not the IDA," he said.

MINORITY
He added that only a minority of IDA members were also members of the Toronto Stock Exchange, and that most of those who were did not specialize in speculative trading.

Referring to the Kelly Royal Commission on Windfall in which it said that 30 per cent of the trading in this stock was by member firms of the exchange acting on their own behalf, Mr. Ostiguy said he was sure that very few IDA members would be involved in this aspect.

"We in the IDA are proud of our record. We have kept our noses clean throughout the 50 years of our association's history," he said, "but even if we are detached from the Windfall affair we will be happy to sit down with the exchanges and the securities commissioners to seek means of preventing such happenings."

"The IDA has not yet had an opportunity of getting together to discuss the Royal Commission report," he said, "but any opinions I express must be my own personal ones."

ATMOSPHERE IMPROVED
The report expressed the view that trading in investment securities and in speculative mines and oils should be separated.

At one time this was the case in Toronto. Mining companies had their own exchange, and when it merged with the more sedate Toronto Stock Exchange the atmosphere had been improved," he said.

UP STANDARDS
"Generally the IDA's function is to improve the standards of all phases of the investment industry," he added.

In recent years the IDA educational courses have been adapted for use by the various exchanges for their members.

UVIC Placement Office Opens Interviews Nov. 1

Fourth-year students at the University of Victoria will soon meet prospective employers on their annual talent hunt.

The student placement office of the National Employment Service is currently preparing interview schedules for the yearly event which begins Nov. 1.

This year's graduating class in the faculty of arts and science numbers 222.

George Bevis, manager of the Victoria NES office, Thursday invited employers to use the campus service.

Fraud Charges

Windfall Pair Arraigned In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — George and Viola MacMillan, charged with fraud in connection with the trading last year of shares of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd., surrendered Friday.

They were taken to police headquarters and photographed and fingerprinted, then to magistrate's court for arraignment.

The MacMillans, connected with the mining industry for almost 40 years, were in Nevada when the charges were laid Oct. 12.

George MacMillan was president of Windfall and his wife the promoter in July, 1964, when the shares rose to $5.60 from 56 cents on rumors the company had found copper on its property near Timmins, Ont.

The price of the shares collapsed overnight to 80 cents after Mr. MacMillan announced no ore had been found.

The MacMillans were accompanied by their lawyer, Gordon Langille, when they appeared at police headquarters to answer the warrants that had been issued for them.

A crowd of news photographers also followed them.

ALSO CHARGED
The charges were laid after the report of a royal commission on Windfall was made public.

Also charged after the report came out was John Campbell, former director of the Ontario Securities Commission. He was suspended from his post in January, 1964, and resigned the following month.

He faces charges of breach of trust by a public officer.

National League Choice

Quiet Walter Manager of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Alton, the quiet man who piloted Los Angeles Dodgers to a rousing seven-game World Series victory over Minnesota Twins, was named National League manager of the year for 1965 in the annual Associated Press poll Friday.

Alton collected 171 votes in the balloting by 328 sports writers and sportscasters. Herman Franks of San Francisco Giants was second with 115 votes followed by Harry Walker of Pittsburgh Pirates with 31. The voting was based on regular season performance.

This is the third time the 53-year-old Alton has been selected for the honor. He was named in 1955 and 1959, both times after the Dodgers won the pennant.

Alton's managerial ability was put to a stiffer test this year than in any previous season. The Dodgers finished sixth in 1964 and few gave them a chance to win the flag, most selecting St. Louis, Cincinnati or Philadelphia.

However, on the strength of the pitching of Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, plus shortstop Maury Wills' aggressiveness, Los Angeles held the lead for most of the season.

Franks, Walker Trail

In September, though, the Dodgers slumped and on the 15th of the month dropped into third place, 4½ games behind the leading Giants. They then won 13 in a row, and clinched first place on Oct. 2.

Alton became the Dodgers' manager in 1954 while the club still was in Brooklyn.

Thomson, Player Survive

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP)—Gary Player, U.S. open golf champion from South Africa, and Australia's Peter Thomson, the British open king, survived two thrilling matches Friday and reached the final of the Piccadilly world professional match play tournament.

They tee off today as sole survivors of the invited field of eight for the first prize of $14,000 and the runner-up's purse of $8,000.

Thomson eliminated the defender, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., 1 up.

Player defeated Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif. after 37 holes.

Thomson was 4 up on Palmer at one time and Lema 7 up on Player at the second hole of the afternoon round yet both the 36-hole semi-finals came down the stretch.

Still Room For Fans

Victoria United travels to Vancouver Sunday to play Firefighters in the Anderson Cup final, and there is still room for about a dozen fans on the team bus.

Fee would be $5, and anyone interested is asked to phone Fred Magee at EV 3-3303.

Sid Upton Wins Trophy

A 29-pound, 10-ounce spring salmon gave Sid Upton the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's September Trophy.

Mrs. J. B. Cove led the women with a 22.04 September catch, and Steve Gregg caught an 8:11 spring to win the junior award.

G. A. Mills, Zela Short, Gordon Burns and Edna Reid were hidden-weight winners.

Speaking Briefly

Hawks Pack St. Louis Franchise

St. Louis Braves finished dead last in the Central Professional Hockey League, and Jim Norris didn't like it.

So Norris, who wants a good price for his rink and franchise when St. Louis gets into the National Hockey League, gave the word to Chicago Black Hawks.

Yesterday, the Hawks answered.

They cut eight players, and instead of sending them to Buffalo or Los Angeles, they shipped them to the Braves.

Making the trip are alternate goalie Dennis DeJordy, ex-Portland defenceman Pat Stapleton, John Nizuk and Gary Kilpatrick, and forwards Art Stratton, Dick Melness and Oscar Gaudet.

PRINCE PHILIP has been quoted in a Milan newspaper interview as saying that he would be "honored and happy" to have his son, Prince Charles, compete in the Olympic Games if he wished.

Jackie Parker of Toronto Argonauts has had an operation to repair damaged knee ligaments, and is probably lost for the balance of the season.

Toronto's other football team, the Rifles, are in second place in the Continental League, two points behind Philadelphia Bulldogs.

Fullback Bill Tobin of Edmonton Eskimos is back on the injured list with a bad ankle.

1968 Winter Olympics will be held Feb. 5-18 in Grenoble, France.

Washington freshman beat Simon Fraser University, 34-7, yesterday in their exhibition game in Seattle.

WARREN SPAHN has been given his unconditional release by San Francisco Giants, but says he's still determined to play in the majors next year.

He is now free to make his own deal with anyone.

Jockey Hugo Dittich, leading rider in Canada, had three winners at Woodbine yesterday giving him 136 for the year.

Defenceman John Neilson and forward John Brennen have signed contracts with New York Rangers.

E.C. Curling Association bonspiel will be held the first week in February in Kelowna.

Olympic champion Anton Geesink of the Netherlands retained the unlimited weight title in the world judo championships Thursday in Rio de Janeiro.

Doug Rogers of Toronto tied for third.

Defenceman Carl Brewer, who left Toronto Maple Leafs' training camp Thursday after being absent earlier in the week, he talked contract with Imlach, but didn't sign.

And as if Leafs didn't have enough problems, Shuck, who was demoted to Toronto's American Leaf farm club at the opening of training camp threatened to quit hockey if he doesn't make it back to the Leafs within a month.

Shuck indicated he wouldn't mind if Leafs traded him so he could get back into the NHL.

Russians Impress Crowd of 2,100

For Victoria sports fans last night posed a problem.

There was John Diefenbaker at the Armory and the Russian national volleyball teams, the best in the world, at the Memorial Arena.

About 2,100 people, 1,800 of them paid, chose the Russians and were treated to a volleyball display which, the purists say, was unequalled in North America.

WOMEN WIN

The Soviet women, who finished second in the Olympics in Japan, defeated their American counterparts in straight games, 15-2, 15-6, 15-11.

Despite one rally which kept the ball in play for 45 seconds, they took only 10 minutes to win the first game, and even the uninitiated spectator could see the difference.

"The Americans just don't seem to be in the same class," one man seeing his first volleyball game commented.

MEN STEAL SHOW

But although the women were impressive, it was the men who stole the "oohs" and "ahs." The men played the American men in Vancouver tonight.

They played a five-a-side, inter-squad game. They leaped nearly four feet in the air from a dead stand. They hit the ball so hard that the report when it smacked the plywood floor could be heard all over the rink.

Most people loved it. "Phenomenal" and "amazing" were

Meet Here Tonight

Leafs Hustle and Hit To Beat Canucks, 4-2

Victoria Maple Leafs came out hustling and hitting in Vancouver to beat the Canucks, 4-2, in their Western Hockey League opener last night, and they'll be out to do an encore tonight at Memorial Arena.

With veteran Fred Hucul and the new Andy Heberton-Miller Marretta-Bob Barlow line showing the way, the Leafs dominated play much of the way before a crowd of 4,722 — Vancouver's best opening night turnout in years.

Hucul scored two goals. Marretta got two and made the pass for Hucul's first as the Leafs proved quick off the mark each period.

Hucul's first goal came with the game 42 seconds old. Marretta's first was 38 seconds into the second period. In each case the Canucks were able to tie it up before the period ended, but Hucul broke the deadlock with a screened slap shot at 13:10 of the third, and Marretta scored at 19:14 to end it.

The Marretta line was first tried in Thursday practice, and coach Frank Mario decided to let it go last night. The Lou Jankowski — John Sleaver — Gord Redahl unit remained intact and big Ed Litzemberger centred for Mike Labadie and either Steve Wituk or Dick Lamoureux.

All three units worked effectively and the Leafs got strong backing from the defence and goalie Al Miller, who blocked 32 shots compared to 20 for Gilles Villeneuve.

Canucks lost rookie centre

Bryan Hextall in a third-period collision with Sandy Hucul. Hextall was taken to hospital for X-rays, and it was feared he had fractured a bone in his ankle.

Only effective line for Canucks was the Bruce Carmichael-Billy McNeill-Howie Hughes unit that led the club in scoring last year.

AGAINST PLAY

Carmichael scored in the first period, the others drawing assists, and Hughes scored from McNeill against the run of play at 18:22 of the second.

Litzemberger, who arrived in Victoria only Thursday, was tested in the corners time and again by the Canucks, came out with three penalties, but more than held his own.

Pontiacs Open Fast Down Vikings, 7-4

Esquimalt Pontiacs opened the Esquimalt Hockey League season on a rough and resounding note last night, trouncing University of Victoria Vikings, 7-4, before 851 fans at the Sports Centre.

Bob Harris and Orv Coulter scored two goals each for Pontiacs, the others going to Pete Dawe, Steve Merriman and Doug Couch. Jim Haggerty, Mike McAvoy, Ted Sarkisian and Glen Harper scored for Vikings, last year's playoff champions.

A total of 15 penalties were called, eight to Pontiacs. Included in the seven Viking minors were two bench penalties.

Next Friday night, Pontiacs take on Navy.

Final Score

1. Vikings, Haggerty (Sarkisian) 7:33

Lions Invade East

Every Game Is Crucial in West's Closest Race Ever

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Every game is crucial in the Western Football Conference's closest race ever.

Only Calgary Stampedeers have clinched one of the three playoff berths and the other four teams still have possibilities. Most desperate of the four are the last-place Edmonton Eskimos who meet the league-leading Stampedeers in Calgary tonight.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers play Saskatchewan Roughriders in Regina Sunday. The Calgary game, to be televised over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's western network, starts at 8 p.m. MST. The Regina game begins at 2 p.m. CST.

Meanwhile, the third-place British Columbia Lions meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Roughriders in a Sunday-Tuesday series in Eastern Canada. Calgary has 20 points, Winnipeg 16, B.C. and Saskatchewan 13, and Edmonton 10. All but Lions have played 13 games of their 16-game schedule. Lions, Grey Cup Champions, have played 12.

Coach Jerry Williams of Stampedeers said his Calgary team realizes Edmonton is looking for a playoff spot.

Calgary team officials said Stampedeers will have to stop the passes from quarterback Bill Redell to end Tommy-Joe Coffey and flanker Randy Kerbow.

Quarterback Eagle Day will play for Calgary despite a knee injury but tackle Roger Kramer who has stretched knee ligaments, will not be dressed. Ron Albright or Dick Suderman are possible replacements for Kramer.

The first home Sunday game for Roughriders.

Coach Eagle Keys said Martin Fabi will not be dressed because of a "stretched achilles tendon" suffered in last Monday's game against Winnipeg. Gene Wlasiuk, who usually returns punts, will do the punting. Garner Ekstran and Gordon Barwell probably will share Fabi's offensive spot.

Edmonton increased its Canadian content by signing half-back Clarence Kachman, 22. Kachman, an Edmonton product who saw action in early-season Eskimo games, is one of the smallest men in the league at 155 pounds and five feet, seven inches tall, but one of the fastest.

Fullback Bill Tobin has been put on the 30-day injury list, after one game off, and Jim Fauver will take Tobin's spot. Fauver is just off the injury list.

Coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg said both Saskatchewan and Bombers have not played their best game of the season yet and added they could do so this weekend.

"We've played good quarters or good halves but we haven't had a complete good game," Grant said.

To Catch Ottawa

Trimble Likes His Chances

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
The only team with nothing to gain in Canadian Football League action in the East this weekend is Toronto Argonauts.

Sporting an embarrassing 1-10 record, the Argos play host today to Montreal Alouettes. The Alouettes, four points back of the idle Ottawa Rough Riders in Eastern Football Conference standings, are still in position to make second spot although the odds aren't in their favor.

"I feel we're in a more favorable position than Ottawa," Montreal coach Jim Trimble said Friday, before leaving for Toronto.

"Ottawa are 6-5 for their 12 points, while we're 4-7, but they have to meet B.C., Toronto and us, while we have Toronto, Hamilton and them."

Trimble said he figures the Lions will be the stumbling block that will enable Alouettes to make the playoffs.

There will be no television of Sunday's Hamilton-B.C. game, which begins at 2 p.m. EDT.

If Tiger-Cats can beat the Lions, they will need only one more victory to sew up another Eastern Conference title and get the playoff bye.

Trimble is faced with a major shuffle of both his offensive and defensive squads because of defensive tackle Ted Elsey reported Wednesday with a twisted knee.

Trimble probably will move guard Wilbert Scott to the defensive line at either end or tackle. Charlie Ballie will start at centre and Don Estes will move from centre to replace Scott at guard.

Counts back Halfback Johnny Counts, who missed the last three Hamilton games because of injury, is due to return to action Sunday.

As far as the boys are concerned, winning the league title is the important thing, he said. "We'll worry about the tournament when it comes along. Right now we've got a league to win."

In the league along with Chinooks will be CJO Saints, who won the Canadian title for two straight years before being deposited by Chinooks, Kerrisdale Merchants, North Shore Mountaineers, UBC Braves, and Killarney, a new entry coached by ex-senior player Herb Olafson.

For $75,000 you could put 15 boys through college, run the Victoria Symphony Orchestra for a year, or above the United Appeal fund past the halfway mark.

Or you could stage a Babe Ruth League world series in Victoria.

That's what the local Babe Ruth Leagues are going to do in 1967, unless they are turned down Nov. 15 or struck by a burst of sanity. They're going to guarantee a minimum of $50,000, agree to a budget of up to $75,000, and work like dogs for two years so that Victoria can hold a baseball tournament for a bunch of boys age 14-15.

And this one small voice would like to ask why.

Get it straight. I am all for minor baseball when it's kept in perspective. But somehow we seem to have lost the point.

Minor baseball is not a factory to turn out major league ball players. Its diamonds were not meant to be stages on which adults can manipulate small kids. The idea of minor baseball is to provide the maximum number of boys with the maximum amount of fun playing a game. Period.

For a while, it worked.

It Stopped Being a Game But then they started holding provincial and state finals, then district finals, then regional finals, and finally "world" finals. And it stopped being a game.

Minor baseball officials say they place no emphasis on winning. But at the end of every season it is not the league's top team that goes on to the playoffs. It is a select "all-star" team picked from the older boys in each league.

The select few go on to the city tournament, and if they win there it's on up the ladder. And behind them all the way, encouraging (pushing?) their boys and by their very enthusiasm giving the whole thing a false sense of importance, are the parents.

You know what we do with minor baseball tournaments? We put a bunch of kids out on a diamond in front of a few thousand people. We put their pictures in the paper, we idolize them. And then we expect them to realize that winning isn't important.

So why bother? I don't know of any man who works harder for minor sports than Will Sadler. The Babe Ruth League tournament is his baby. He wants it because he thinks it helps local minor baseball, and come hell or high water he's going to get it.

A Couple of Paragraphs Sadler says it means great publicity for Victoria. I doubt it. The series will get big play here and in the home town of the other eight teams involved, but elsewhere it will be a couple of paragraphs buried on the sports pages.

To get that, the Babe Ruthers are going to guarantee $25,000 before the tournament and $25,000 after, and pay any other expenses that Babe Ruth Inc., doesn't cover. The city is going to get Royal Athletic Park ready to seat 5,000 people—because that's the crowd Sadler figures he'll need for each of the eight tournament nights to break even.

To handle part of the financing, Sadler plans to send an army of men out to sell 10 series passes—some 3,000 of them. He's talking of selling by payroll deduction, and a dozen other gimmicks.

"It's bound to go over," he said with obvious sincerity. "I saw the last one, and it was a real spectacle."

Spectacle? Sure it will be a spectacle. The baseball will be outstanding, too, because the teams that get this far are a bunch of perfectly-coached little automatons.

Helping Feed the Monster But if we hold this thing, enjoy it or not, we'll still be helping to feed the monster that minor baseball has become. Look, Victoria has got one of the finest baseball organizations anywhere. It got that way because dedicated people worked to give boys a place to play. So why not put it back in perspective?

Why not call it quits after the city finals? There's no law that says you have to go any farther. Why not put an end to all-star teams? Let the kids that won their league play in a city playoff. Then give them all a coke and a hot dog, and send them home.

Kids don't need long trips and big tournaments to have fun. They need a bat, a ball, a glove and a place to play. That's all. And let's stop trying, as so many do, to justify the expense and the pressure of tournaments by saying the game is moulding character, or making a man of your boy.

He's got lots of time to be a man. The time to be a boy is all too short. Isn't it, dad?

Big Goal: One Piano

Concert Scheduled in Fund Drive

By WILLIAM THOMAS

To dispel the notion that the McPherson piano situation is something that people just talk the Victoria School of Music is going ahead with a plan to raise funds to buy a piano worthy of the talent we have available.

John Graeme, president of the school, announced Friday that a benefit concert will be held in the Playhouse Nov. 10 at 8:30 p.m. with proceeds going to a piano fund.

Robin Wood will offer piano selections and John Jean Angers and Hans Siegrist in a chamber trio.

FAMILIAR WORKS

The program promises to be both interesting and satisfying as familiar works will be featured.

If sufficient funds can be raised and supplemented with donations then a top quality concert instrument will be bought.

John Graeme

Mr. Graeme explained it may be necessary and advisable to go to the expense of having a pianist of top calibre audition a number of instruments so that the stigma of the present situation can be removed.

SEEMS NATURAL

Robin Wood seems a natural for this assignment.

Mr. Graeme explained the piano if and when it is obtained would be available for recitals in the Greater Victoria area at nominal cost.

The Nov. 10 concert will be sponsored by the Royal Trust Co. and it is to be hoped all who filled the McPherson Playhouse for the unfortunate Malczynsky concert will offer support to this concert so that the metallic monster may be silenced.

Robin Wood is well aware of the shortcomings in the instrument currently in use. He will probably have to use it for his homecoming debut with the Victoria Symphony this weekend when he offers the Brahms concerto in D minor. It presents a formidable barrier for any artist.

Pensioners Petition Government

Old age pensions should be $100 a month, says W. A. Jenkins, left, and P. H. Davey, officials of Victoria Pensioners' Association No. 3. More than 1,000 oldsters agree as evidenced by signed petitions in picture, and campaign is still on. General meeting of pensioners will be held at 1616 Blanshard at 1:15 p.m. Nov. 9. Petitions will be sent to federal government. — (William E. John)

Italian Injured, UN Talks Deferred

UNITED NATIONS — The United Nations General Assembly has agreed to defer for at least a week the start of its inevitable bitter debate on the question of Communist Chinese representation.

The decision was taken, after consultations among the chairmen of committees, because assembly President Andreo Ruffini of Italy, who fell and hurt a tendon, still is in hospital.

Secretary-General U. Thant informed the assembly that Ruffini would undergo surgery early next week.

KARACHI — President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan may visit New York at the end of November or early December to address the United Nations General Assembly, the Associated Press of Pakistan news agency reports.

ALBANY, N.Y. — Sen. Robert Kennedy (D-N.Y.) said Communist China would probably reject an invitation to join the UN at this time, even if it was invited.

IBADAN — Alhaji D. S. Adeniji, who appointed an "interim government" in Western Nigeria after claiming election results were falsified, will face a charge of "false assumption of office in connection with legislative powers."

OBAN, Scotland — Queen Elizabeth has opened Britain's biggest hydro-electric power project, a $42,000,000 dam and power station. Her right eye appeared to be swollen and slightly closed, but this was the only indication of a cornea injury for which she has been receiving treatment.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Poet Randall Jarrell, 52, has been appointed to the Canadian Peace Congress will arrive in Victoria from Indonesia Wednesday to address a meeting that day at 8 p.m. in the Students' Union Building, Lansdowne campus, University of Victoria.

"He will speak on the present situation in Indonesia as well as on Viet Nam," said Robert G. Munro of the Peace Action League of Victoria.

The talk by Dr. Endicott, former United Church minister, is being jointly sponsored by the League and the Student Activities Council of the university.

At present in Indonesia, Dr. Endicott is taking part in a conference of the World Peace Congress on Problems of Foreign Military Bases.

TAUGHT WITH RIGOR — High literacy in Finland dates from the 17th century, when illiterates were placed in the stocks and forbidden to marry.

NEW YORK — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will make a four-day stopover in Moscow before returning to Moscow.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (UPI) — A committee circulating petitions opposing the marriage of Crown Princess Beatrix to a former German army officer said it had more than 5,000 signatures. The committee says it wants to put on record the uneasiness of many citizens about bringing a German into the Dutch royal family.

Public Turning Cynical

One of the results of the Liberal administration of the past 2½ years has been to make many Canadians disillusioned with politicians, George Chatterton said Friday night.

"An unhealthy cynicism of government leaders has developed," said the Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative MP in the last three parliaments, in his introduction to John Diefenbaker at the Bay Street Army rally.

"Mr. Diefenbaker is a man we can trust to preserve a Canadian identity, to foster Canadian unity, to restore integrity in government and to restore the faith of the people in our national institutions."

In turn, Mr. Chatterton was lauded by Mr. Diefenbaker at many points through his speech as he mentioned an issue, and Mr. Chatterton's contribution at Ottawa.

Both Mr. Chatterton and the Conservative candidate for Victoria, Rev. Clifford White, emphasized in short speeches their faith in the commonwealth and the monarchy.

Chief Smith pointed out that parents of boys too old to go trick or treating on Halloween night could help the police if they would ensure the boys were home at the regular time.

"Just because it is Halloween night does not make it right for older boys to be roaming the streets late at night," he said.

"I don't think parents of teen-age boys are naive enough to think their youngsters are out collecting candies until midnight," he added.

Graduate School Certain Next Fall

A School of Graduate Studies for the University of Victoria appears a certainty by next fall.

Unanimous approval has been given by the University's Senate to "the gradual development of programs in certain areas of study which will lead students to higher degrees at the master's and doctoral level," president Malcolm Taylor last night announced to the university's fourth academic assembly.

The recommendation is to go before the Board of Governors for final ratification Monday.

But a committee to plan and administer the new graduate school has already been established, Dr. Taylor said. Its chairman is Dr. Harry Scargill, head of the department of linguistics and former dean of the faculty of arts and science at the University of Alberta in Calgary.

It is planned students will be enrolled in some departments by the fall of 1966, to work towards the degrees of M.A. and M.Sc.

NATIONAL MISSION
"As human knowledge increases, as new disciplines are born, as scientific and technological innovations transform our lives, it is part of the national mission of all universities to make provision for the education of students beyond the undergraduate level," Dr. Taylor said last night.

He stressed that at the same time the university was firm in its resolve to maintain the excellence of the teaching at the undergraduate level at the university.

'Earn Us Respect, Esteem'

Dr. Kennedy stresses the need for hope and expectation that we can develop here a program of undergraduate and graduate studies which will earn for us the respect and esteem of the academic world.

In addition to honoring scholarship winners, last night's ceremony in the gymnasium at Gordon Head Campus recognized first recipients of the university's new diploma in public administration.

Appropriately the guest speaker was Dr. Gilbert Kennedy, B.C.'s deputy attorney-general.

Dr. Kennedy stresses the need for what he termed competent exercise of man's freedom to differ. He said in this way men moved forward to a better understanding of each other, of themselves and of their world.

And that a university was an outpost of this freedom, its values and restraints.

DISUSE
The speaker suggested our freedoms were being allowed to disappear by disuse.

"Are our freedoms going down the drain of conformity brought on by 24-hour music, slick magazine advertising, comic strips, television pictures and other substitutes for reading? And, worse still, are we removing the freedom to differ by the sanctions applied to maintain conformity?" Dr. Kennedy asked.

CONVERSATION BARE
He said the last was evidence of today's devices to remove the necessity to exercise our thinking processes. Good conversation was rare.

Dr. Taylor did not miss the opportunity to comment on the financial problems currently spotlighted in the higher education field.

RESPONSIBLE
"If to a single student we deny the opportunity of transforming himself through study at the highest level he is capable," he warned, "then as a society we are at least partially responsible."

for the destruction of an individual's private dreams."

He said "in a land as rich and blessed" as Canada this must not be allowed to happen.

Dr. Taylor called the Bladen report encouraging for all concerned with university life. If federal and provincial governments implemented its major recommendations, they would see the beginning of a new era in higher education with adequate provision for this generation of students and succeeding ones.

ENCOURAGING

Unusual public comment was made of the university's chancellor Dr. J. B. Clearhue, when an old portrait of himself, the work of Victoria-born, New York-based artist Myfanwy Pavelec, was presented to the university.

The artist's mother, Mrs. Will Spencer, made the presentation and told the assembly as a portrait of Dr. Clearhue had been "a dream."

The chancellor, noticeably moved by the ceremony, replied the artist was "charming and talented."

Titan Switch Fails Tests

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Titan 3 military space rocket scored a second straight test flight success Friday, but a "switch engine" it hurled into orbit achieved only two of 10 planned ignitions. The "switch engine" — the fourth stage of the rocket — was to have shifted course four times and kick loose three satellites.

Young trick or treaters are welcome to their Halloweening, but vandals can expect the full weight of the law, Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay police chiefs said Friday.

The chiefs did not fully agree with their Saanich counterpart W. A. Pearson who said earlier that the sooner they abolish Halloween the better.

Deer Hits Car For $60 Bill But Meal Free

A venison dinner draped itself over the side of a Langford man's car at 5 p.m. Friday.

The man was driving north and had just passed the Thetis Lake underpass, when a deer jumped up from the side of the road and ran into the side of his car.

The impact inflicted $60 damage on the car.

Cowdroy RCMP pulled up soon afterward. They said the man cut the deer's throat, and after speaking to police, threw the deer in the trunk of his car and drove away.

No one knew who the man was, but there may be a venison dinner on the fire somewhere in Langford.

B.C. Lions Re-Hire Cameron

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Lions of the Western Football Conference have signed full-back Roy Cameron, a former Lion released last week by Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Cameron, a Vancouver College star who attended Wenatchee Junior College in Washington, was with the Lions in 1961, played for Edmonton Eskimos in 1962 and went to Saskatchewan for the next two seasons.

He missed the 1964 season because of injuries received in an off-season automobile accident.

Guide To Curious Sights

Walking cartoons. An entire host of famous cartoon personalities come alive as they walk the enchanted streets of one world-famous funland.

Monument of basets. Statues of pre-historic mammoths, giant ground sloths, and the like are on display near the bubbling La Brea tar pits off Wilshire Blvd.

The Old West. Pan for California gold in an authentic replica of an Old West gold mine. Be a part of a stage-coach robbery. All in less than an hour from Los Angeles.

6 stories of sand. Rising 6 stories from the ground, row upon row of sand dunes form an exotic desert landscape. Nearby, a date grove oasis.

Acrobatic seals. At a colorful oceanarium on a scenic hillside overlooking the Pacific, see the antics of seals. Educated whales also perform.

attracts many admirers to a movie star wax museum.

The extremes. From one site see the highest point in 49 states (14,496 feet) and the low-est (280 feet below sea level).

Treasure trove. On our beaches discover striped shells, sand dollars, and driftwood brought in by the waves.

Canyons of gems. Discover desert foothills rich in gem stones—opals, agate and jade.

Water pagant. Costumed carolers and Santa, atop his barge, play their part in the water pageant at Naples canal community.

Mountains that sleep. Our volcanoes have been silent for centuries. These solemn mounds of earth add a mysterious touch to the desert.

Well, it looks as though Christmas is just around the corner—at least the way the post office sees it.

Even now, it's too late to send parcels and letters to Indo-China in time for Christmas. Mailing date deadline was Oct. 9.

On the other hand, for Australia or New Zealand there is still time. Last days are Oct. 26 for parcels is Nov. 23 and letters Dec. 8.

For the U.K., Europe, the Middle East and Cyprus there is still plenty of time. Deadline for parcels is Nov. 23 and letters Dec. 8.

Anyone who forgot friends in Indo-China can still stay in their good books by sending a little something by air. Parcels can be posted up to Dec. 6 and letters until Dec. 8.

Arabs Killed
ADEN (UPI)—Three Arab civilians were killed and an Arab police officer was injured when anti-British riots broke out in Seikh Othman town. British troops moved in to take control of crowds enflamed by rumors that two suspected Adene members of the nationalist front had died under torture in Al-monsura prison just outside Seikh Othman.

Police denied the rumors.

Greater Victoria Boy Scout and Cub troops will have to close down unless they can find a number of the area's Scout assistance.

Sudden Deadlock

West German Crisis Faced by Erhard

BONN (CP)—Chancellor Ludwig Erhard met Friday with leaders of his Christian Democratic party to decide what to do about the sudden deadlock in his efforts to form a new West German government.

The crisis arose Thursday night when the Free Democrats, the junior partners in Erhard's coalition, walked out of the negotiations. The Free Democrats want their leader, Vice-Chancellor Erich Mende, to keep his other job of minister of all-German affairs. Erhard wants to replace him with a Christian Democrat.

DEADLOCKED
No date was set for a resumption of talks between the two groups.

The new Bundestag, elected Sept. 19, is scheduled to hold its first session Tuesday. It had been expected to re-elect Erhard chancellor a day or two later.

These plans have now been upset by the Free Democrats' walkout.

NO COALITION
A leading Free Democrat, Thomas Dehler, reiterated that his party would not join a coalition if the Christian Democrats insisted on rejecting Mende.

The present lineup of the Bundestag lower house: Christian Democrats 245, Social Democrats 202, Free Democrats.

These groups need assistance "either in uniformed leaders or the equally essential committee-men that look after the administration of the various groups," an association spokesman said.

The month of September saw the new Scouting year begin for more than 1,100 Victoria Boy Scouts in more than 60 troops from Sidney to Sooke, and 2,500 boys in more than 90 Cub packs.

While "Scouting is a game for boys, it is a job for men," the spokesman said.

Volunteers interested in working with the Cub Scouts have been asked to call regional headquarters. The phone number is 382-3916.

China Seeks To Defer Conference

ALGIERS (AP)—China has formally asked the postponement of the Afro-Asian summit conference scheduled to open in Algiers Nov. 5.

The request, made during a meeting of the ambassadorial preparatory committee, touched off heated argument.

The conference was originally scheduled for June but was postponed when Col. Houari Boumedienne overthrew Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella just before the conference.

STAN DELAPLANE Tips You Off

"While in Tokyo, I will visit two Japanese families as a guest for two or three days. Could you possibly suggest a gift I can take?"

Difficult, because Japan has all the gadgets. I usually take a record of a late Broadway musical to friends overseas. It packs flat and is lightweight.

Or—Japanese are big on gardens. Could your local nursery suggest some native flowers? You could take the seeds. (Tokyo climate: humid cold winters, humid hot summers.)

Or—a book with colored pictures of North American scenes. (But no pictures for framing. They don't fit the decor of Japanese houses.)

Gifts must be gift-wrapped—gift-giving is quite a ritual. The receiver doesn't open the gift in front of you. And usually he goes right out and buys YOU a gift.

Don't give handkerchiefs, except for farewell gifts. (Handkerchiefs are for weeping.) No gifts in sets of four—the word "four" also means "death." Nothing in sets of nine—"nine" is also "pain." The Japanese aren't shy more superstitious about this than we are about "13." But it's more polite this way. And politeness is VERY important.

"We are looking for a route back from Trinidad with as many stops as possible in the West Indies..."

Pan American runs an island-hopper I was on a few years ago. Gets in just about everything in the Leeward and Windward Islands. What they don't get, they'll arrange by transfers to British West Indies Airways. Stopovers as long as you like at no extra cost.

"We would like to make a trip around the United States. We are a retired couple in good health. Plenty of time. Not too much money."

Greyhound has a bargain—90 days for $90. You just pay the $30. And you can travel as much as you want for the next 90 days—100,000 miles in the U.S. and Canada if you can make it.

"Do you have information on living costs in Spain?"

Three years ago, I was living in Madrid. General living cost for two adults, one child and a maid was $19 a day. That's food, drinks, entertainment, taxis. The maid cost $25 a month. I paid $8 a day for a hotel-apartment. Quite a bit higher than renting a house. But this was a short-term rental.

Country living is cheaper. Very good houses in Madrid were renting for $130 a month. In the country they were $75. That's furnished—four to five bedrooms.

I'm sure this has gone up. But maybe not too much. The Spanish government keeps a tight control on prices and wages. Friends tell me maids are hard to get in Madrid. Industry is out-bidding the housewife. But you get maids and cooks in the country.

"We were interested in what you had to say about camper-trucks camping in Europe. Can these be rented?"

They can. But for more than three months, it's cheaper to buy them on a guaranteed repurchase plan. The company buys them back, discounting time and mileage. The people you want to write to are Wilsons, Motor Caravan Centre Ltd., 36-38 Acre Lane, S.W. 2, London, England.

An odd one you can find out about by writing Matt Murphy, Ballymaquirk, Banteer, County Cork, Ireland. They rent you horse-drawn gypsy carts or arrange for canoe camping. Do it yourself or go with groups. I've never done this. But it sounds good and the Irish countryside is wonderful. It goes by too fast in a car.

"For Christmas in Mexico, what type clothing please for a woman?"

In Mexico City, dress as you would for any big city. No formal needed. But you'll want a cocktail dress or two for big hotels. In the country, dress is casual. Shorts and slacks are still a little too much except at the beach resorts like Acapulco.

Mexico City and the highlands can be warm one day and freezing the next. Acapulco will be hot. You need clothes for both. Baggage becomes a problem. Everything is downhill from Mexico City. You can always get out of cold weather by going down a couple of thousand feet.

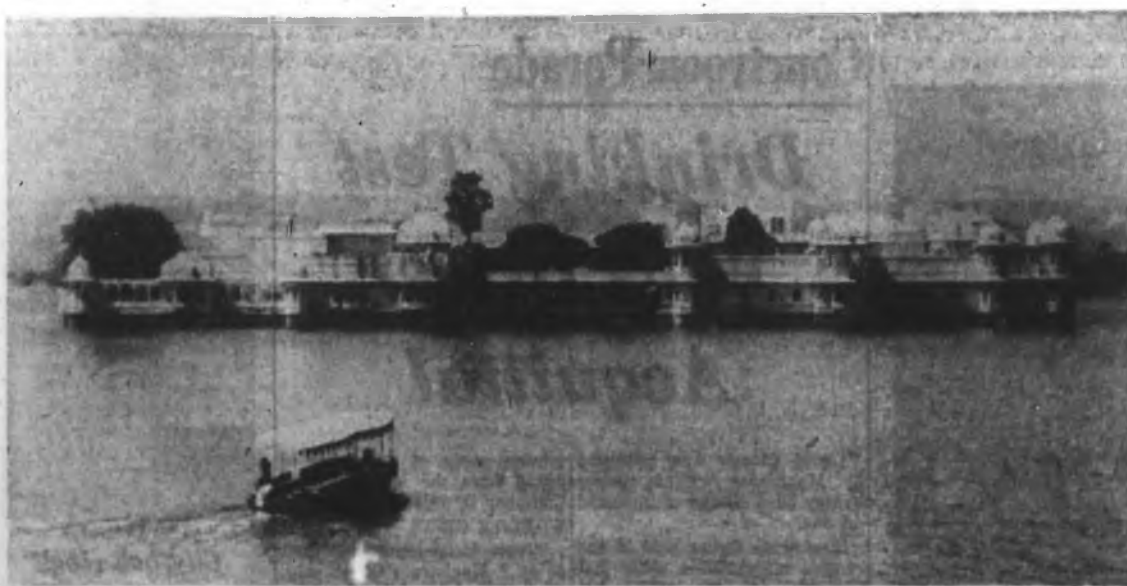

"Will you suggest a hotel in Mexico City that is reasonable. It's our first time."

The Geneva with rooms at about $6 or $8 a day. It's an easy way to break into the city the first time. They speak English. Water and salads are safe. I think it's the only hotel in Mexico that cashes your dollars into pesos at bank rates—no out.

This is fairy-like view of Lake Palace Hotel, Udaipur, India that every visitor sees as he arrives by boat.

Unique Tourist Experience

'Floating' Palace Exudes Charm, Luxury, Romance

By DONALD LANGLEY

Udaipur became part of the tourist vocabulary in 1963 when the Maharajah of Mewar (Mewar is the former name of the region) opened a luxury hotel in what had been one of his palaces on an island in Lake Pichola.

The palace, dating from 1757, has been painstakingly restored in every detail and guest rooms have been added. The fact that the hotel can be reached only by boat adds to its romantic aura. It appears to float on the lake's mirror surface.

of the chief reasons for visiting Udaipur; it is an outstanding example of 18th century Indian palace architecture and it is also one of the most comfortable and charming resting places in all of India.

Inlaid tile mosaic decorates many of the walls, ceilings and archways of the restored palace. Moorish arches and pavilions dominate the airy open architecture. Extensive use of marble underscores the prevailing elegance.

More than any other palace I saw in India, the Lake Palace creates an impression of the level of luxury that ancient Indian princes lived.

Udaipur is a tranquil place, partly because it is not easy to reach. From New Delhi there is only one flight a day here.

Because of Lake Pichola's size—four square miles—I was startled to discover that it was created artificially by the damming of a stream almost 600 years ago. Three smaller lakes, similarly created, are connected by canals. Beyond the surrounding hills, Rajasthan state is mostly desert.

Tours of Lake Pichola begin at about 3:15 p.m. when guides and boats pull up to the hotel's front door. On a leisurely hour-long cruise, we were shown the wildlife which abounds: cranes, storks, green parrots, cormorants, vultures and an occasional crocodile.

During the tour the standing rays of the late afternoon sun changed the color of the buildings from white to gold while the water turned from grey to deep blue.

Just before sunset the boats tie up at Jag Mandir, another of the Maharajah's lake palaces dating from 1615. Jag Mandir is being rebuilt as a recreation area for hotel guests.

As the sun went down, flocks of green parrots descended on Jag Mandir from jungles some miles away. This signaled the end of the tour and we were returned to the hotel to watch the afterglow of the tropical sunset from terraces over the water.

The hotel is the principal purpose of a visit to Udaipur. Its attractions are the sheer beauty of the surroundings and the opportunities for relaxation.

Most of the visitors here with whom I talked had booked to stay only one night; all wished they had planned to stay longer to savor the atmosphere of romance and elegant luxury.

Novelty is at every street corner and on every hillside in this quiet corner of old Europe. The wells and fountains in the streets give forth both hot and cold water.

Tobacco grows in neat rows on nearly every hillside. The favorite cigar of the natives—popular with tourists too—is 25 inches long.

Mules carry goods—some of the contraband—over the mountain tracks just as they did centuries ago. Oxen pull the peasants' carts and ploughs.

Little churches dot the hillsides, most of them dating back for centuries. Ancient castles sit astride mountain crags.

Wild cattle, sheep and horses roam the mountainsides where skiers enjoy winter sports.

You find in Andorra shops and stores as modern as those in London, Paris or New York. Tourists are amazed at the cheapness of the goods in this land that has no import duties or sales tax.

Tiny Paradise—For Smugglers!

ANDORRA, Europe (CNS)—Smuggling is regarded as part of normal life in this mountainous country in the Pyrenees between France and Spain.

The traveler also is startled to find that all letters and packages inside the country are delivered without stamps or cost.

Andorra, the smallest independent country in Europe, is officially known as the Principality of the Valleys of Andorra. It lies in the centre of the Pyrenees mountains, and occupies an area of only 250 square miles.

Andorra has no customs posts to collect export duties. Hundreds of motorists from France and Spain arrive here on weekends to purchase such articles as fine suede coats, shoes and radios, watches, jewelry and expensive liquors.

The only problem after that is to get the goods past the French or Spanish customs posts. The ways to do this are many in such wild and unpatrolled territory.

The officials of Andorra don't worry about how much contraband is smuggled out of their state.

"We accept smuggling as a part of everyday life," an Andorra police official told me. "Everybody does it. Besides, it is excellent for trade."

Sahara Trip to Timbuctoo Awaits Blase Travellers

LAGOS (AP)—Tourists who think they've seen everything might consider a 13-day drive across the Sahara Desert, spending Christmas in Timbuctoo.

Those interested should acquire a sleeping bag and other camping gear, plus a foam rubber cushion for use with camel saddles, and then contact Dr. Eugene Thomas.

She is a 52-year-old Dutch-born physician who relishes being called a "desert rat" and has been motoring around the Sahara long enough to have earned the title.

She first visited the desert in 1938. Several years ago hardy tourists began paying for the privilege of accompanying her and her hobby now has been formalized. Her headquarters is in Kano, Nigeria.

Dr. Thomas says the best desert travellers are "those ruffians who have been all over the place. Office types usually don't fit in."

Americans, Britons, Dutch, French, Swiss, Poles, Germans, Belgians, Norwegians and Koreans have made desert crossings in her Land Rover named Saharian.

Dr. Thomas is waved across frontiers without red tape. "I have more than 20 years worth of friendship to help me along."

She knows most trans-Sahara truck drivers and many occupants of the Bush Geste-style forts originally built for the French Foreign Legion.

The Christmas-in-Timbuctoo tour leaves Tangier Dec. 16 and makes stops at Fez, Ouzd, Colomb - Bechar, Adrar and Bouren before arriving at Timbuctoo. Stops are then made at Gao, Naimy and Maradi before journey's end at Kano.

Dr. Thomas doesn't worry about competition. "I don't think any other fool does what I do. Driving through the desert is relaxation for me. Everything else is strain. Some people like the sea. I hate it. I just like the desert."

Dr. Thomas worked in a clinic at Toulon, France, before the Second World War and was in the French underground during the war. Since then most of her time has been spent in or on the fringes of the Sahara.

Motoring through drifting desert sand requires "experience and very fast decision making," she says.

"I unload the passengers and let them walk when the track gets particularly bad. A slow, even speed is usually best because the wheels dig in if you accelerate."

The stretch between Agadez, in Niger, and Tamanrasset, Algeria, is the most difficult, she believes.

"Many men look at me and say 'If a woman can do it so can I,'" she says. And she smiles knowingly.

Motoring through drifting desert sand requires "experience and very fast decision making," she says.

"I unload the passengers and let them walk when the track gets particularly bad. A slow, even speed is usually best because the wheels dig in if you accelerate."

The stretch between Agadez, in Niger, and Tamanrasset, Algeria, is the most difficult, she believes.

"Many men look at me and say 'If a woman can do it so can I,'" she says. And she smiles knowingly.

Dr. Thomas doesn't worry about competition. "I don't think any other fool does what I do. Driving through the desert is relaxation for me. Everything else is strain. Some people like the sea. I hate it. I just like the desert."

Saanich Insurance Broker Seeks Council Seat

The federal election can take second place as far as Gordon Champion is concerned.

The 35-year-old insurance broker has declared himself a runner for a council seat in the Dec. 11 Saanich municipal elections and says he intends getting his campaign started right away.

He says he wants to whip-up voter interest in positive issues and to attract other younger people to come forward with them as candidates.

CO-ORDINATOR

A strong factor in Mr. Champion's personal platform will be a demand for a co-ordinator for the fast-growing Saanich municipality, on the lines of Victoria's city manager.

There will be five seats to be fought for this year. Three are at present filled and the other two are the result of the proposed increase in composition of the council from six to eight members plus the reeve.

Mr. Champion, who lives at 3572 Cedar Hill Road, says he regards council as a large business "and like any large business, in order to get ahead with the new developments it must bring in new directors and ideas."

"I feel, as a taxpayer and insurance man, I should declare my intention of running in the hope other young businessmen will come forward."

Mr. Champion said the council

Winners of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's Thanksgiving Party were: Section A, North-South: 1. Margie Crockett and Cam Wallace; 2. George Gardner and Bill Brown; 3. Ron Smith and Ken Magee; 4. Mollie Collins and Dorothy McCune; East-West: 1. Mimi Loefer and George Moran; 2. Bill McConnell and Dick Lipsey; 3. Roy Glover and V. Lewis; 4. Walter Allen and Eric Howard.

Section B, North-South: 1. Phil Hest and Tony Ward; 2. Elsie Gower and Jack Golder; 3. Elizabeth Warren and Bud Waddell; 4. Barry Bala and Eric Ware; East-West: 1. Margie Crockett and Cam Wallace; 2. George Gardner and Bill Brown; 3. Ron Smith and Ken Magee; 4. Mollie Collins and Dorothy McCune.

ell's problems were too large a work load for members, and that the load was largely shared by those who had time to spare during the day.

As a multi-unit business, it must have a co-ordinating manager, he said.

The insurance man believes municipalities should be more critical of MLAs who they feel were not doing a sufficiently good job for the community. He said they owed it to taxpayers.

Mr. Champion is a native of White Rock, B.C., but has lived in Saanich for 13 years.

Skid Road

Hostel Planned For 500

The provincial government has agreed to establish a short-stay hostel for 500 men shortly on Vancouver's skid road.

Welfare Minister Wesley Black said Friday the government would pay half of the estimated $50,000 cost of renovating a building selected for the hostel but not yet acquired. The government will then provide 90 per cent of operating costs for the hostel, with the city of Vancouver contributing the remainder.

HABITUAL DRUNKS

Aim of the hostel program is to try to break the jail-skid road-jail cycle of habitual drunks and other petty wrongdoers. It will provide a form of custodial care but is not a prison, officials said.

The province's share of operating costs will cover room and board for inmates in lieu of welfare payments.

SPECIAL UNIT

A special unit of the Vancouver city social welfare department will work closely with the National Employment Service in providing counselling service to find jobs for hostel inmates.

Agreement on establishment of the hostel, expected to be in operation by the end of this year, was reached Friday at a meeting between a Vancouver delegation headed by Ald. Halford Wilson and Mr. Black and deputy welfare minister E. R. Rickinson.

Thieves Raid Display Case, Loss $498

Drinking Test Wins Driver Acquittal

David Clough was acquitted by Magistrate William Ostler Friday on a charge of impaired driving.

Magistrate Ostler said in the central magistrate's court that Clough's driving, "while not commendable, was not unusual."

He said it was significant that Clough, of 236 Ontario, had performed the tests satisfactorily. Clough admitted having had four runs on the evening of Sept. 8 and backed this with the evidence of the bartender who served him.

It cost three youths $35 each for having liquor in their possession.

Robert Unwin, 18, of 1842 Crescent, and Richard Impatt, 19, of 170 Prince Andrew, admitted having a bottle of rye each in a car on Sept. 24.

John Thompson, 18, of 1145 Woodstock, had two bottles of rum in his possession on Sept. 27 and admitted buying them in Vancouver.

Michael Connolly, who had a few hours of liberty from the Wilkinson Road jail Thursday, was remanded to Oct. 22, so he could seek legal assistance.

Ajeet Dheensaw, of 1760 Taylor, had no excuse for stealing. Magistrate Ostler told her. She had pleaded guilty to obtaining goods at the value of $30.18 from the Hudson's Bay Company by false pretences.

WORLD'S GIFTS

"There is no excuse for theft at all," Magistrate Ostler said, "especially by people who have plenty of the world's gifts and don't need any more."

She was fined $100.

Heinrich Beyer's difficulty was self-indulgence, Magistrate Ostler said.

"It doesn't matter whether you owe people money or not, as long as you are getting along all right," he said.

BOND AND BANNED

Beyer, of 2533 Quadra, was given a suspended sentence after pleading guilty to two charges of theft under $50.

He was placed on a $500 good behaviour bond for 18 months and banned from driving anywhere in Canada for six months.

Life Expectancy—100 Years

Time for No One, Big Timepiece Stops for Checkup

Some Students Don't Remember

VANCOUVER (CP) — One college freshman thought Gandhi was a former British prime minister.

Another identified Mussolini as a Russian revolutionary. Remember Stalin? A German political leader who was hanged.

These were some of the answers 136 first-term students at Simon Fraser University in suburban Burnaby gave in a test by history professor Warren Williams.

"The results of the sample tested could be most politely described as depressing," Dr. Williams said.

"They represent a serious comment, not on the intelligence of the students, but on the uses to which that intelligence is put in the system from which they have come."

Best-known names were Hitler (correctly identified by 90.7 per cent), Engels (58.1), Ghandi and Neville Chamberlain (both 55).

Only 25 per cent of the students knew Romanov was a member of the Russian imperial family and only 45 per cent knew who Senator Joseph McCarthy was.

Only 13.9 per cent knew that Daladier was a prime minister of France and only 18.2 per cent knew that Sartre was a French philosopher.

'Irish' Ticket Holder

In Dark, Unruffled By Fate of Draw

Island Beach Resort owner N. J. Grabas still has no word yet on whether he will get any money out of the Irish Sweepstakes.

Thursday, Mr. Grabas' name appeared on a list of drawn tickets, but he has not yet received official confirmation from Dublin.

He is not worried about it though. He is just in the dark.

NOT RANKING
"I would just like to know what the score is," he said Friday.

"I'm not banking on it," Eric Marzink, of Nanaimo, has a ticket riding on Hasty Cloud, last year's sweeps winner.

ODDS LOWER
However, Hasty may not be as fast this year. The seven-year-old is carrying 29 pounds more than last year, and odds are now only 16 to one for the horse.

Odds are also 16 to one for Burning Torch.

Mrs. Florence Hannay of Wellington, has a ticket on that horse.

RAD COUGH
Meanwhile, in Newmarket, England, a brief spell of coughing has dropped Canadian-owned Quisett to second place in the betting for Saturday's Cambridgeshire stakes which carries the multi-million-dollar Irish sweepstakes. Trainer Harvey Leader said Quisett, owned by Canadian Murray P. Flemming, had not gone off her feed and did not have a temperature. However, the coughing was enough to move Sir Philip Dunn's Minor Portion to 6-to-1 favorite in the betting while Quisett dropped to 7 to 1.

IN RUNNING
Thirty horses were left in the running for the mile-and-a-half long race over the Newmarket course.

L'Homme Arme, a five-year-old, was quoted at 33 to 1, and Targogan, another five-year-old at 14 to 1.

Ace Jockey Lester Piggott, who has never won the Cambridgeshire, is riding Prince Lene, a four-year-old colt who was quoted at 20 to 1.

HORSE LIST

King-Size Problems For Queen

By BOB PETHICK

Enough ill omens to make an old sea dog shudder plagued the launching Friday of the $6,000,000 ferry Queen of Prince Rupert.

● The ship's captain-to-be was in hospital.

● The ship's launching had been delayed 24 hours by high winds.

● A child apparently tripped the launching mechanism before sponsor Mrs. William Murray could break the bottle of champagne.

● When VMD president Harold Husband quickly threw the bottle, it bounced unbroken off the hull.

● High winds buffeting the ship as it hit the water caused a towboat cable and a retaining cable to snap, and tugs had to hustle to stop the runaway from colliding with Ogden Point dock.

NOT IMPRESSED
But a couple of old sea dogs weren't impressed with the series of mishaps.

"I don't go along with this superstitious business," said Capt. Vern Green of the B.C. Pilotage, a veteran of 35 years at sea. "I think it's a good demonstration of quick thinking on Mr. Husband's part, and by the tugboat men. It shows the kind of men we have at sea these days."

"And you can bet Tommy Parkinson will look after any so-called jinxes," he added. Capt. Parkinson has been appointed captain of the Queen of Prince Rupert. He is at present recovering from surgery.

SHE'S ALL RIGHT

J. B. White, a veteran seaman who sailed before the mast, wasn't concerned with the ill omens either. "She'll be all right," he said. "In the old days sailors wouldn't go to sea on a ship that had that happen. Now those who sail the ships are different. They aren't superstitious." Would Mr. White sail aboard the Prince Rupert?

"Certainly," he said. The comedy of mishaps began as Health Minister Eric Martin, representing Premier Bennett, concluded his speech. The launching mechanism was turned on ready to start the ship down the ways, when a log floated across the ship's projected trail.

There was a delay as the log was pulled clear. Mrs. Murray, wife of the Speaker of the B.C. Legislature, William Murray, stepped up and began her sponsor's speech, and the unidentified boy leaned accidentally on the button.

Mrs. Murray triggered the bottle, which just nudged the bow. Mr. Husband grabbed the bottle and hurled it, but it refused to break and as about 60 people on the platform watched the ship head down the ways, the boy disappeared.

Heavy winds buffeting the ship snapped two cables, and four tugs wrestled the large ferry clear, and then pulled it into the dock.

SHIP CHRISTENED
But in spite of it all, the ship was christened.

A determined Mrs. Murray, Mr. Husband and a small party fled down to the wharf, where a makeshift platform had been prepared and a new bottle of champagne was supplied.

With understandable feeling, Mrs. Murray said: "I name this ship the Queen of Prince Rupert and God bless all who sail on her." She swung the foam gushed and the Prince Rupert was in business.

She will make her maiden voyage from Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert May 20.

Bastion Renaissance Is Near

The $130,000 rebirth of Bastion Square will take place this winter with work starting in November, it was indicated after a closed committee meeting.

In a statement following the meeting, Ald. A. W. Toone, urban redevelopment chairman, said Nov. 1 was the target date.

The meeting gave final approval to the undertaking which will be done as an urban improvement scheme with the federal government contributing $77,000 toward the cost.

The rehabilitation of Bastion Square is the second of the major beautification projects which the city has undertaken in the past few years. The first was Centennial Square, now nearing completion.

The city's share of the cost is provided for in the five-year capital budget plan approved by the ratepayers last year.

Chair Is Empty In Sidney Again

By JIM BRAHAN

Sidney has lost another village chairman—Lt. Col. J. H. Larocque resigned Thursday after being in office less than three weeks.

He is the fourth member to resign this year from the Sidney commission.

Colonel Larocque refused to divulge his reason for quitting council.

"I resigned because I wanted to," he said.

PRESSED FOR COMMENT

"No comment," he said, when pressed for reasons.

He said his resignation was in no way connected with lowering the age limit for pool players in the village, which was passed at last council meeting with him the only objector.

ELECTED SEPT. 24

Col. Larocque was elected by acclamation on Sept. 24.

The office of village chairman became vacant when former chairman A. A. Cormack resigned Aug. 23, along with Commissioner F. S. B. Heward, after their objections to legislation to initiate a $185,000 roads development program for Sidney was overridden by the other commissioners.

COUNCIL DISPUTE

Another commissioner, J. G. Mitchell, resigned last spring after a dispute in council with the finance chairman over an increase in the mill rate.

City Girl Dies After Crash

A Victoria girl died in hospital in Vancouver Thursday of severe injuries suffered last Saturday in a motorcycle crash.

Jean Hilsden, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hilsden, 2711 Dufferin, was a public health student at UBC.

Mr. Hilsden said he bought the motorcycle for his daughter as a graduation present.

HEAD INJURIES

Miss Hilsden suffered severe leg and head injuries when her bike collided with a car. The driver of the car was not seriously injured.

She is survived by her parents, her brother, Chris, and sister, Lynne, all of Victoria. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Officials Open Savory School

Deputy education minister Dr. G. N. Perry officially opened the new Savory Elementary School in Langford Friday.

Special guest at the event was Miss Lillian Savory, member of the pioneering family which gave the school its name.

Other guests included Sooke School District trustees, the school's architect and contractor, and representatives of the PTA and B.C. Teachers' Federation.

The six-classroom school, located on Grainger Road off Goldstream Avenue, opened its doors to students last month.

Perpetual Injunction Sought

Restaurateur Sues Mill Over Fallout

By A. H. MURPHY

A Victoria restaurateur brought a damage action against B.C. Forest Products Ltd. Friday for air pollution. He is also asking a perpetual injunction against a smoke and fly ash nuisance.

A writ was filed by Pearman and Lindholm, solicitors for Paul Arsens, proprietor of three city restaurants, including Paul's Crown House at 3075 Douglas, claiming unstated damages and costs for the diffusion of smoke, soot and fly ash.

Mr. Arsens said the suit was begun to alleviate the fly ash problem which "has plagued Paul's Crown House since its inception in 1959."

LAYER OF GRIME

"There has been a constant outcry over the past 10 years against the fallout which leaves a daily layer of grime on businesses and residences in the northern part of the city and I decided to take some action," Mr. Arsens added.

He said the nuisance is an impediment to business and that patrons and staff suffer by it.

ALLEGED LOSSES

Loss of patronage and devaluation of property are alleged.

The history of Victoria's smoke nuisance is long and involved. Dozens of petitions have been submitted over the years, signed by thousands of names. Claims and counter claims have been made over the years by aldermen, city officials and the several companies accused of causing the nuisance.

CLOSURE ORDERED

First positive action came in June, 1964, when city council ordered that beehive burners, of which there were two in the area, must be closed down by May 1 of the following year.

Both were Smith Cedar Products Ltd., which now has a smoke-free operation, closed its come-down nine months ahead of time, and B.C. Forest Products closed down the burner on its Moore-Whittington division a month before deadline.

FALLOUT WORSE

After a number of months, complaints began to filter in to City Hall. It was claimed that while the smoke nuisance was somewhat less, the fallout problem was no better, and at times even worse.

A meeting was held of the city council smoke control committee at which Herbert Barnes, B.C. Forest Products mill manager, was present.

TWO STACKS

It was pointed out at that time that B.C. Forest Products was operating four burning units to develop steam. Smoke was discharged from two stacks, one steel, one cement. Mr. Barnes said smoke had been brought under control by a mechanism which was part of the one unit which served the steel stack.

CONFERENCE ARRANGED

Before the meeting was over, Mr. Barnes was asked to arrange a meeting of the top echelon managers of the company, with headquarters in Vancouver, and city aldermen and officials.

It was reported at City Hall within the past few days that a conference had been arranged for November.

Inspection Scheduled

Commander Gordon C. Edwards of Hamilton, Ont., will make an informal inspection, Monday, of HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve division.

The newly-appointed commanding officer of naval divisions was formerly in charge of personnel on the Atlantic Coast. He has had a long career as a naval aviator, during which he was commanding officer of the naval air station at HMCS Shearwater.

The spacious dining room in the Oddfellows Hall, 1323 Douglas Street, will be the setting for the annual fall bazaar which is being held Saturday, Oct. 23, by Carne Rebekah Lodge, No. 45, IOOF. There will be stalls of home cooking, aprons, fancy work, home-made candy, plants and flowers at the bazaar which will open at 10:30 a.m. Displaying some of the work for sale are Mrs. A. Brown, general convener; Mrs. O. Green, district deputy president of B.C. Rebekah Assembly, who will open the tea at 2:30 p.m.; Mrs. D. Burkholder, noble grand, who will receive guests, assisted by Miss Irene Barnett, vice-grand.

Wedding At Ganges

GANGES, B.C.—A quiet wedding was solemnized Oct. 12 in Ganges United Church when Rev. E. W. Macquarrie united in marriage Jean Mary, daughter of Mrs. Galbraith and the late Capt. James Galbraith, and Lyle Stanford Brown, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown. Given in marriage by Mr. L. S. Ramsey, the bride wore a navy blue Italian knit suit with matching accessories, a small pink hat and corsage of pink carnations and lily-of-the-valley. A reception for family and intimate friends followed at the home of the groom's parents on Rainbow Road, where the toast was proposed by Mr. G. S. Humphreys.

On their return from a honeymoon spent on Vancouver Island, the young couple will make their home at Ganges.

BAZAAR NOV. 6
The United Church Women and Centaurea Guild of Ganges City United Church are sponsoring the annual fall bazaar to be held in the Church Hall on Saturday, Nov. 6, at 2 p.m. A delicious afternoon tea will be served. The stalls will feature many items for sale including doll clothes, candy, home baking, Christmas decorations, stuffed toys, knitting, sewing, plant and produce, and novelties.

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, honorary president of Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society, will receive the guests at the society's annual fall bazaar and tea on Saturday, Oct. 23, in Metropolitan United Church. Also receiving will be Mrs. H. Hicks, president of the Golden Key Auxiliary. Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, honorary president of Golden Key Auxiliary, will open the affair, assisted by Mrs. Dan Campbell, at 2 p.m. Mrs. K. Clarke Gilbert is general convener. Home cooking table will be among the popular features and getting in practice for the event are Mrs. Frank Cameron, left, and Miss Barbara-Ann Hindson.—(Kinsman)

Administrator Tells Of Strides in Korea

Mr. Ray Dawson, administrator for Save the Children Fund in Korea, spoke to meeting arranged by United Church Women of Centennial Church.

Mr. Dawson who has been on leave in the United Kingdom is now enroute back to Korea.

More than 70 women, including Mrs. W. W. McGill, Fund representative here and several sponsors of Korean children heard Mr. Dawson tell of the tremendous work being done by the Fund.

Mr. Dawson said tuberculosis is still the greatest scourge in Korea. There is still one person dying of TB every 12 minutes in the country. It is the major disease treated in hospital and clinic.

Mr. Dawson says that it is hoped to break the back in conquering TB within the next five years.

The great social problem is unemployment. Starting in a small way the Fund is opening a vocational school where 200 will be trained and will be assured of employment on completion.

Save the Children Fund is spending $700,000 a year in the country and with other organizations some gratifying results have been noted.

You can't say no child is starving, said Mr. Dawson but you can say a great many more would be if it weren't for Save the Children monies.

Headache Could Cause That Stiff Neck Look

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—That woman who holds her neck stiffly may not be snooty after all. No, ma'am. She may just be trying to baby a tension headache stemming from some kind of stress or conflict—physical or psychological.

The victims of such headaches often assume such a posture. Even if the pain's from something psychological, it's just as real as one connected with a lump on the cranium. So don't make the mistake of saying her headache's all in her mind.

A new report on inter-cranial throbbing notes that women get more headaches than men. What's more, the hurt usually comes from different causes.

The female headache is such a thing unto itself, in fact, that science has devised a new pill just for women's headaches. It's capsule form, but it's not a capsule. It's for women but it isn't pink—the traditional color of femmes.

The capsule-shaped pill is white. Studies show that women prefer white pills. It denotes purity.

The new pill combines analgesic and sedative ingredients. Scientific studies have shown that this is exactly what is needed by the woman who gets frequent headaches. Then analgesic helps kill her pain. The sedative helps to quiet her nerves. A report on the female headache, a unique phenomenon, notes that in virtually every instance an emotional component is involved in the female headache.

The report, from Glenbrook Laboratories, a division of Sterling Drug Inc., states also that psychic factors in the causation of headaches among women are largely unconscious.

In the opinion of Dr. Charles D. Aring, professor of neurology at the University of Cincinnati, people who get nervous tension headaches symbolically carry a great weight on their shoulders.

How a woman's headache differs from that of her husband's is explained by Dr. Joseph C. White, assistant director of the department of neurology at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. He reports:

"The mechanics of the female headache are the same as the male, but it is the endocrine glandular process of the female that intensifies her emotional reaction and gives her headache some subjective differences.

"These differences include—a wider variety of causes can bring on a headache; it is triggered more easily; her system responds more severely; the severity of suffering causes her to tense up and experience even more pain; and her headache comes back more frequently."

Why do women seem to suffer more, once a headache comes? Dr. Macdonald Critchley, a British authority on headache, maintains that it is because women have a greater sensitivity to pain.

That this is so fits in with what else is known about women. Her five senses are generally more acute than are those of men.

"Her sight is unusually sharp and she is apt to have fewer eye defects than men," the report noted "she hears more noises at night. Taste and smell are keener."

The new headache pill for milady—"Cope"—won't rub out the tension-producing elements in her life contributing to headaches.

"It will just help her cope with life in a more relaxed manner," a spokesman for the drug firm said.

The dinner hall will be held in the wardroom at Naden and Cmdr. F. E. Grubb, president of the Association, and Mrs. Grubb will receive the guests. Rear Admiral M. G. and Mrs. Grubb, Capt. D. B. and Mrs. Wartle and Cmdr. F. C. and Mrs. Smith are on the special guest list. Lieut. Cmdr. A. Temple, vice-president of the naval officers, and Mrs. Temple will go to the hall with Chief Constable and Mrs. J. Gregory, Supt. and Mrs. G. E. Engel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wicks, Lieut. and Mrs. W. George, Miss M. Mitchell, Miss Mariel Bourque, Mr. W. Hamilton and Mr. Richard Scafer of Vancouver.

Lieut. and Mrs. D. Bayburn will have pre-ball guests, Lieut. Cmdr. and Mrs. H. Mc-Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fidd, Mr. and Mrs. L. Szabo, Mr. and Mrs. William Crossman, Mrs. Shirley Sten-Strench and Mr. J. Byrne.

Cmdr. and Mrs. G. Gray will make up a party with Cmdr. and Mrs. I. Elchle and Capt. and Mrs. C. V. Laws. Lieut. and Mrs. Gibbons will be with Dr. and Mrs. F. Miles.

Capt. and Mrs. Ronald Newell are making up a party and their guests will be Cmdr. and Mrs. A. C. Wartle, Rev. Anthony and Mrs. Roberts, Capt. and Mrs. F. C. Frewer, Capt. and Mrs. E. J. B. Morahan, Commodore and Mrs. H. V. W. Groos, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanderson, Capt. and Mrs. W. P. Hayes and Lieut. John Kay.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell C. Guthrie, 2090 Carnarvon Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their elder daughter, May, to Mr. Charles Ross Maconachie, son of Mrs. Maconachie, 831 Newport Avenue, and the late F/O R. J. Maconachie. The wedding will take place in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, Saturday, Oct. 30. Miss Guthrie is a 1964 graduate of Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing and (Mr. Maconachie is a 1965 graduate of the School of Architecture, University of British Columbia.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 18-year-old girl whose parents want me to do something I consider cruel. Please advise me.

My best friend who is also 18 tried to commit suicide yesterday. I don't think she really meant to kill herself. She is a smart girl and she'd know how to finish the job if she really wanted to. I think she was only seeking attention.

This girl is attractive and lives in a lovely home and has plenty of money to spend. She's always had trouble with her parents. They give her money and gifts, instead of love, and she resents it.

My folks say I must stop seeing her because she is not right mentally and she might attack me. They also say it will hurt my reputation if I go around with her.

My friend tells me things she could never tell anyone else and I know it helps to get things off her chest. She needs me more than ever now. What shall I do?—TORN

Dear Torn: Your loyalty is admirable, and I agree that it would be wrong to abandon the girl completely. Nonetheless, you should loosen the lines. Your friend is unstable and the attachment could be destructive to both of you.

She should be unloading on a psychiatrist. Urge her to get that kind of help.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem that I have never heard of in my whole life and I'll bet you have never heard of it either.

I'm 16 years old, a good student, better than average looking and I have plenty of dates. So what's the problem? My mother. She wants me to go steady, and I don't want to.

My mother was born in Europe and she came here at age 19. This may account for some of her odd ideas. She says it is not decent for a girl to date five or six different fellows. According to her it means that the boys pass the word from one to the other that she's an easy mark and they are all having a good time with her.

I tried to explain that the chances for getting intimate are reduced when a girl goes with many boys rather than with one. She said, "I'd rather have you get intimate with one nice boy than go with every boy in town."

This shocked me. What is your problem?—DAZED

Dear Dazed: I hate to tell a girl that her mother is wrong—so I won't. I'll just say I don't agree with her.

People who were raised in another country often have ideas which are different from ours. Mark it up to foreign culture and stick to your own ideas.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

Fall is the time of year I think a person should be able to just laze and gaze at all the beauty of the countryside.

So what do we do? Run around like squirrels hoarding nuts for the winter.

There is more going on at this time in Victoria than any other time of the year. Or at least it seems that way.

You can hardly draw your breath between fashion shows. And every church and hospital in town, as well as other organizations, either have had or are planning their pre-Christmas bazaars and sales. I said pre-Christmas.

So it was rather a welcome change of pace to learn that one annual event, entirely different than any other, will be something to be looked forward to in November. This will be the annual Debutante ball, the exciting night for so many young girls. They will be making their bows to His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Peakes on the night of the 19th in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel.

The annual ball is sponsored by the Vancouver Island branch of the United Services Institution. President, Rear Admiral E. W. Flach Noyes is on an extended trip to Eastern Canada so the honors of the evening will fall to vice president, Group Capt. E. A. McGowan, CD, RCAF (ret).

Col. and Mrs. R. D. Travis who have been the power behind the scene for many years will again give of their experience for the ball this year.

To Decorate Winner

Out at Sandown track this afternoon, Mrs. Churchill Mann will decorate the horse winning the Vancouver Island Championship race.

Gen. and Mrs. Mann came here from the East not too long ago and are well known both here and in the East to horse breeders.

After tomorrow there is still one more day of racing on Monday out at Sandown.

Trafalgar Day Ball

Although Trafalgar Day actually falls on the 21st of this month the Naval Officers Association won't be commemorating the day until Saturday, Oct. 23.

The dinner hall will be held in the wardroom at Naden and Cmdr. F. E. Grubb, president of the Association, and Mrs. Grubb will receive the guests. Rear Admiral M. G. and Mrs. Grubb, Capt. D. B. and Mrs. Wartle and Cmdr. F. C. and Mrs. Smith are on the special guest list. Lieut. Cmdr. A. Temple, vice-president of the naval officers, and Mrs. Temple will go to the hall with Chief Constable and Mrs. J. Gregory, Supt. and Mrs. G. E. Engel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wicks, Lieut. and Mrs. W. George, Miss M. Mitchell, Miss Mariel Bourque, Mr. W. Hamilton and Mr. Richard Scafer of Vancouver.

Lieut. and Mrs. D. Bayburn will have pre-ball guests, Lieut. Cmdr. and Mrs. H. Mc-Nichol, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fidd, Mr. and Mrs. L. Szabo, Mr. and Mrs. William Crossman, Mrs. Shirley Sten-Strench and Mr. J. Byrne.

Cmdr. and Mrs. G. Gray will make up a party with Cmdr. and Mrs. I. Elchle and Capt. and Mrs. C. V. Laws. Lieut. and Mrs. Gibbons will be with Dr. and Mrs. F. Miles.

Capt. and Mrs. Ronald Newell are making up a party and their guests will be Cmdr. and Mrs. A. C. Wartle, Rev. Anthony and Mrs. Roberts, Capt. and Mrs. F. C. Frewer, Capt. and Mrs. E. J. B. Morahan, Commodore and Mrs. H. V. W. Groos, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanderson, Capt. and Mrs. W. P. Hayes and Lieut. John Kay.

Wins Fellowship

Some people seem to have an affinity for certain things and their scholarships for Mrs. Sandra Djwa. She's been winning them since school days in St. John's, Nfld.

Mrs. Djwa, now teaching at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, has recently been awarded the H. E. McMillan Fellowship of $3,200 renewable annually for a period of three years. This will assist the Ph.D. student in her studies on Canadian politics.

CHANGE DRINKING HABIT
Instant beverage preparations in Britain have reduced tea consumption 10 per cent and increased coffee 25 per cent.

Members and friends of Capital City Yacht Club are promised a gala evening on Friday, Oct. 22, when they join in the fun at the dinner dance being put on by the Women's Auxiliary in Saanichton Agricultural Hall, from 6:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Getting in the mood for the Honky Tonk Barn Dance—theme of the evening—are Mr. Ivan Peetz, seated at the piano; Mrs. F. Wiltse, on piano; Mr. Wiltse and Mrs. Peetz, standing. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., followed by a smorgasbord dinner at 7:30. Entertainment will be provided by male members of the club and dancing will be to the music of Art Kingsley's Royal Victorians. Mrs. S. Middleton is convener; Mrs. K. Lineham, Mrs. D. Sharpe and Mrs. Wiltse, tickets and reservations; Mrs. A. Greenwood, Mrs. T. Martin, Mrs. L. Chambers, in charge of tables.

Sheen-Pettigrew

Couple Now Making Home in Vancouver

Centennial United Church was the scene recently of a double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Brenda-Lynne Pettigrew and Mr. Dann Evan Sheen.

Dr. S. Parsons heard the nuptial vows for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Pettigrew, 277 Michigan Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sheen, Burnaby, B.C.

A floor-length gown of organza and hand-clipped Chantilly lace was chosen by the bride for the wedding. The lace bodice featured a square neckline and lily point sleeves and matching lace edged the detachable waist-train. The bride's mantilla, trimmed with silk illusion net, styled with Chantilly lace, fell from a pearl tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Mr. Pettigrew gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Donna Murray, maid of honor, and Miss Joyce Deacon, bridesmaid, wore floor-length sheath gowns in mauve taffeta and featuring white lace overlays. They wore tiaras and carried cascades of yellow roses and white carnations.

For travelling the bride chose a two-piece suit in jade green wool worsted. She wore black accessories and a yellow carnation corsage.

Mr. George Radstaak, Vancouver, was best man. Ushering were Mr. James Sheen, brother of the groom, and Mr. Bill Pettigrew, bride's brother.

Mr. Charles J. Underwood proposed the toast to the bride at a reception which followed in White Eagle Hall.

Circle Works Quietly

The appeal by the Family and Children's Services for more foster homes in this area brings to light a group who have been doing their bit for the Service in their own quiet way for many years.

It may be that their work is done quietly and unknown to many but it is a pretty important contribution.

The group is named the Lambeth Circle and their work is entirely voluntary.

The name Lambeth Circle might strike as a bit unusual in connection with Children's Service but the group came by it quite honestly even if the original meaning had more significance.

A group of friends gathered together during the war years to discuss ways and means of making a direct contribution. They decided on Lambeth Hospital in London and so named themselves after their project.

In 1941 alone they sent 100 parcels to the hospital.

When the war and the lean years following were over there was no need for the little group to keep sending parcels overseas.

So in 1951 they looked carefully around for another needy cause and decided upon the Family and Children's Service.

Now they meet once a fortnight in each others homes to knit and sew from 2:30 and after a cup of tea leave for their homes by 4 o'clock.

During the summer months no meetings are held but when they gather again in the Fall each member has to produce two articles knitted during the holidays.

The membership of 10 includes some top rate knitters. Working hand in hand with the Children's Service the group makes the articles most needed. If a baby is to be placed into a foster home on leaving hospital, the members are told in advance and the baby has a beautiful hand made layette when he or she leaves hospital.

Raise $300

Over $300 was realized at the rummage sale and tea held, Saturday, in Legion Hall, under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary to Royal Canadian Legion.

Mr. F. W. Kirkham convened the successful affair and tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Dennis Seward. $10 worth of warm clothing for the Cree Indians of Canada's northland was purchased by St. George's Guild, with several left-over articles being added to the collection. Other unsold articles were sent to Goodwill Enterprises, Victoria.

Norfolk House School for Girls, will hold the annual bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 30, at the school.

Arranged by the Mothers' Auxiliary, it is under the joint co-sponsorship of Mrs. C. G. Heisterman, Mrs. H. Hamersley and Mrs. L. M. Evans.

Four fathers have volunteered to run the now famous Fathers' Stall. They are Commander M. F. Oliver, Mr. D. S. Campbell, Mr. M. P. B. Wrixon and Mr. D. O. T. Rochfort.

In addition to the school's usual stalls—which include hand-knit goods, hand-made pottery, Christmas decorations, a Frenchroom of good clothing, barbecues, puppet shows—there will be a delicatessen stall and the students are making their specialty, King Alfred cakes.

There will be entertainment and a tea will be served.

As an example of the care and attention that Finning gives to its stock of Caterpillar spare parts, consider the modest gasket.

We say 'modest' because when an inventory covers 25,000 different line items and a value of almost five million dollars, gaskets don't loom that large.

More often than not you'd find them hanging from a wall somewhere. But not at Finning. REASON: This tends to weaken them. And a customer could be hung up with a blown gasket when he least expects it.

So Finning has spent $8,000 on specially-designed drawers to allow each gasket to relax without strain until it's needed.

Now take this kind of thinking and apply it to the other 24,999 types of parts in stock.

You'll see why so many people in B.C.'s rugged basic industries happily rely on Finning . . . the big company that isn't too proud to think small if it means better service.

Pearson Favors Talks with U.S.

Water Export Joins Issues

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Prime Minister Pearson told TV viewers Friday night his government plans to discuss the export of Canadian water with United States officials.

"This can be as important as exporting wheat or oil or anything else, and one day we'll find out how important this resource is," he said in Ottawa.

In Victoria, John Diefenbaker took sharp exception to this and made the issue a major topic in his two-hour speech to a packed house in the Bay Street Armories last night.

Rekindling his vision of Canada for an enthusiastic crowd he said "the proposed export of Canadian water is not in keeping with the constitutional rights of the provinces and forgets the demands of our young citizens in the next 30 years."

At the same time in Nelson Mr. Diefenbaker's former agriculture minister, Alvin Hamilton, said Canada should agree to the United States plan to syphon off huge quantities of fresh water. In his outline Mr. Pearson stressed Canada would have to be "awfully careful" to ensure that its own needs are met before exporting water to the U.S.

Diefenbaker: NO PEACE IN ABANDONING ASIA

By IAN ARROL

Most of the more than 3,000 in attendance at the Bay Street Armory Conservative rally Friday night joined national leader John Diefenbaker in his affirmation of faith in the traditions and future of Canada.

Apart from one persistent heckler who provided the old warrior with opportunities to add shafts of wit to his presentation, the only solid opposition came from a group of 12 called the Peace Action League which called out periodically: "What about Viet Nam?"

"How about restoring peace and unity in Canada through the election of a Conservative government?" was the rejoinder from Mr. Diefenbaker.

Then he said, "All of us want peace."

"Many here carry the marks of service for freedom."

FRUGHT WITH PERIL

"The situation in South Viet Nam is fraught with great peril. It is not easy to say what should be done."

Then he asserted: "Asking for recall of the Americans will not bring peace."

A demonstrator's placard read: "Yankee Come Home!"

"It would be so easy to take that stand."

"But what would happen?"

"Southeast Asia would fall to communism and Australia and New Zealand would be threatened."

HOPE AND PRAYER

"It is my hope and prayer," he said, "that North Viet Nam, the puppet of Communist China, will agree to cessation of hostilities."

"The U.S. is willing," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "North Viet Nam and its partners in Peking are not willing."

I WANT IT

Mr. Diefenbaker took Mr. Munro by the arm and said, "My boy, we are every bit as desirous of world peace as you are, and I want it as you do."

"But we will never achieve peace for you to enjoy in the future if we adopt a stand of weakness."

However, Mr. Diefenbaker promised he would not commit Canada to military aid to the United States in Viet Nam.

SEVEN QUESTIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech in Victoria included seven questions for the prime minister concerning allegations made in the recently published book by former Social Credit MP Guy Marcoux (see Page 5).

But he did not give the detailed documentation heard in other cities where he has recently spoken.

The basic appeal was to the traditions of the past, "which must not continue to be eroded away," and the possibilities for the future.

SET MOOD

The first pronouncement of the evening under the heading of "issues" set the mood and the theme of his presentation.

"This election will chart the future of the nation. Today we face in every part of the nation, the rising feeling of the Canadian people that action must be taken to stop the erosion of the traditional things of this nation and restore honesty to public life."

He said, concerning Liberal policy in the past two-and-one-half years, "retreat has followed retreat . . . in the tradition of the past."

'Fair Deal for B.C.'

Bennett To Battle

By IAN STREET

GANGES — Premier Bennett disclosed here Friday he will campaign in this election—starting with a rally at Prince George Oct. 21—for "a fair deal for B.C."

The premier gave places where he will make election speeches, including Victoria at the end of this month, but no firm dates. He was here to open a new $250,000 government building, then planned to spend a quiet weekend on his Salt Spring Island retreat.

He will fly to Prince George for the campaign opener, returning by air to Vancouver the next day for a press conference in the Hotel Vancouver.

The trip through the Interior, covering the Okanagan and East and West Kootenays, will be by car, with the premier stopping frequently to "main street," shaking hands with individual voters and chatting about local problems.

Pressed for more details of his speaking schedule, he said, "Elections are not won by speeches. You must meet the public."

The premier will then, presumably, return to Victoria about the end of the month for an election rally here before going to Vancouver for the Socreds' convention and a windup election meeting Nov. 5.

When he speaks in Kimberley there will be Welfare Minister Black and Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell in support. At Trail the ministers will be Donald Brothers, mines, and Eric Martin, health.

At Penticton it will be Recreation Minister Kiernan and Agriculture Minister Richter, and at Vernon Mr. Richter and Highways Minister Gagliardi.

In addition, under the two-province Socred plan of attack, Resources Minister Willington will campaign in Medicine Hat, Attorney-General Bonner in Lethbridge, and Highways Minister Gagliardi in Edmonton.

Alberta cabinet ministers will make a series of return trips to B.C., but details aren't released yet.

Demonstrations Across Country

By UPI

Critics of U.S. participation in Viet Nam marched by the thousands in noisy demonstrations Friday in cities across the nation in a concerted drive for a reversal of American foreign policy.

Heavy Blow

Viet Nam Ignores Red Call

SAIGON (UPI) — The people of South Viet Nam dealt a blow to the Communists Friday by disregarding a Viet Cong call for an hour-long nationwide strike.

Men, women and children flocked as usual to markets, schools and places of business as the time called for the strike — 11 a.m. to noon — came and went without incident.

U.S. Embassy officials who kept a close tab on everyday activities in towns and cities of South Viet Nam said the Communist bid for an outpouring of popular support was "a total fiasco."

TO PROVE BOAST

The strike call was the first the Communists have made to prove their boast that the majority of the Vietnamese people stand behind them.

The failure of the strike was regarded by some observers as the closest thing to an election ever offered to the Vietnamese public during the 20-year struggle with the Communists. Officials wondered why the Communists had put their prestige on the line so recklessly.

ANNIVERSARY

The strike-call was made to mark the anniversary of the execution of a Communist terrorist in Saigon.

The walkout was to have touched off a month of "popular struggle" against the government and U.S. forces.

Backers of American involvement in the war clashed with the pacifist groups in some cities and heckled them in others in the first phase of a scheduled three-day round of protests.

Berkeley, Calif., was the scene of the largest demonstration. About 6,000 persons marched from the University of California campus to the Oakland army base, about 7½ miles distant.

OFFICERS ON DUTY

The march began despite refusal of Oakland and Berkeley authorities to issue a permit; and after the demonstrators had been denied a federal court order for an injunction against the two cities.

About 2,000 law enforcement officers and national guardsmen were on duty for possible outbreaks.

'DARK DAY'

Earlier, Oakland Mayor John C. Houlihan vowed the march would be blocked.

LAW EGGS

Raw eggs were showered from an upper floor of Roosevelt University onto Chicago's Michigan Avenue as rival groups marched on the sidewalk. The pro and con forces scuffled over a picket sign.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., a float depicting opposition to the war was overturned and air let out of its tires—a few hours before it was to join a University of Michigan homecoming parade.

AGENTS READY

Hundreds of pickets demonstrated at the armed forces induction centre in New York. Three-hundred demonstrators marched and chanted in front of an induction centre in Chicago's loop.

Federal agents were reported to have circulated among the New York demonstrators, ready to take action if any of the protesters destroyed their draft cards.

Montreal Students In March

MONTREAL (UPI)—About 120 Montreal students, their enthusiasm dampened by a steady drizzle held an anti-American Viet Nam policy protest meeting in Montreal's Dominion Square Friday.

The students, from McGill, Sir George Williams, and Montreal Universities, marched down the Peel Street sidewalk to the square where they heard former British Guiana premier, Cheddi Jagan, call the United States "bandits."

Red Boss Captured

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian Communist boss D. N. Aidit, object of a widespread manhunt for his participation in the abortive leftist attempt to seize power, is reported to have been arrested in central Java.

Several newspapers said Aidit, chief of the Indonesian Communist party, was arrested by army troops in Jogjakarta on Thursday.

Jogjakarta is the place where a number of leftists fled following collapse of the power grab Oct. 1.

DEMAND DEATH

Demonstrators participating in wild protests against the rebellion throughout Indonesia have demanded death for the Communist leader.

Indonesians has also reprimanded the Chinese and Cuban embassies here for not flying their flags at half-staff during mourning last week for six generals killed during the abortive coup attempt against President Sukarno Oct. 1.

Hunt for Relative Not a Happy One

The uniting of relatives over the space of many miles and years can be an occasion of delicious joy, or of sorrow.

If a Duncan woman finds a missing relative in Los Angeles, the happiness will be tempered with sadness.

She told the Colonist in a letter she noted in a newspaper article a teen-age boy in California had the same, unusual, name as her father, who came to North America from his European homeland many years ago.

Now, she will get in touch with the Californian, if she can, and find out if he is a long-lost member of the family.

Red tape will have to be cut to reach him, because the event that brought his name into the newspapers was his conviction for his part in the gang rape of a policeman's daughter.

Philip Sorry For Damage At Airport

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — Philip Philip, personally piloting his plane on a flight from Milan, Italy, tore up turf along the runway in landing Friday night at Scone Airport near here.

"I'm sorry for making a mess of your runway," he told airport officials and ground crew members.

Philip Philip had made a perfect landing in the Andover plane, but as he taxied to one of the main hangars the plane's wheels tore large pieces of turf from the edge of the runway.

For the last two days, Philip was in Milan attending a British week exhibition. Queen Elizabeth planned to join her husband and spend the weekend shooting on the moors near Perth.

U.S. Production Slows Down

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — U.S. industrial production declined in September for the first time in 10 months, the government has reported.

The Federal Reserve Board, the U.S. central bank, said its index of industrial production dropped one per cent last month, placing output back at about the same level as in June.

Troops Clear Barriers From Capital

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — The Dominican capital was an integrated city once again Friday as inter-American force troops and trucks cleared sandbags and barbed wire entanglements from the streets and filled in anti-tank pits.

The troops took down the so-called checkpoints they had established throughout the city since their arrival last April.

The actions reunited the city for the first time since the start of the civil war last April 24. Purpose of the barricades and checkpoints was to keep the rival Dominican factions from clashing.

Reds Inflict Heavy Losses

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong rebels ambushed a South Vietnamese patrol of 100 men and inflicted heavy casualties, a military spokesman said today. But Vietnamese troops outbought the guerrillas in another clash.

Nine Candidates Race, Rush, Roar For Two Island Seats in Commons

An independent says he hasn't been invited to all-candidate rallies, a Liberal says voters should elect a member of the government for good representation, and a New Democrat attacks Liberals who say voters should elect members of the government for good representation.

So goes the big show that is known as a federal election race, as nine men try for two berths in the House of Commons, as representatives of up-island ridings.

Comox-Alberni and Nanaimo-Cowichan the islands voters are hearing the platforms, arguments, and policy statements of four parties and an independent in the election.

Comox-Alberni New Democrat Tom Barnett in Port Alberni this week said the Canadian people are questioning the use of parliament as an instrument of democracy, because of the leadership of Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker.

He said "My ideas have changed since I first walked toward the Peace Tower when I was first elected (in the early 1950's)."

GREAT RESPECT

"I grew up with the image of parliament as an institution deserving tremendous respect. I held the thought of entering it almost in awe. I thought of it as an institution resulting from the struggle of centuries in the Mother of Parliaments."

"But what has been happening to parliament under the leadership of Lester Pearson as prime minister and John Diefenbaker as leader of the opposition and vice-versa?"

J. Alex MacKenzie, independent candidate in Comox-Alberni, says "I do not feel they can truthfully call the meetings at Port Hardy or Port McNeill all-party gatherings, since I have never been invited by the people involved."

"Sometimes I get the feeling the other parties would like to hide an independent candidate in the same way they dispose of other difficult problems, by kicking them under the rug."

"I have paid $200 fee and my papers are in order. I am an official candidate for this area and I would like the voters in Port Hardy and Port McNeill to know why, if I do not appear at the meetings with other candidates from this area."

Commenting on the apparent lack of interest in the campaign, Mr. MacKenzie said "the apathy displayed in most quarters leads me to think that most of us probably get the type of representation we deserve in parliament."

VOTERS WEARY

However, Mr. MacKenzie does not believe in knocking on doors himself.

"The voters have been annoyed enough during the past five years. The last thing they want to see at the door is a smiling politician."

DATES SET

Social Credit candidate J. M. Gagnon, Comox-Alberni, has announced meeting dates for individual meetings in the riding.

In addition to participating in all-party meetings, Mr. Gagnon will be covering the north end of the Island from Oct. 16 to the 19, and will hold Social Credit meetings at Port Hardy, Port McNeill and Alert Bay on his own.

ALBERNI MEETING

Oct. 26 there will be a Social Credit candidate meeting at Qualicum Beach, and on Oct. 27 and 28 at Tofino and Ucluelet.

On Oct. 30 there will be a meeting in the campaign rooms, Third Avenue South in Port Alberni, and on Nov. 4 Mr. Gagnon plans to hold a meeting in Alberni, at a location yet to be announced.

YOUTH CHAMPION

Tory candidate Walter Matthews, Nanaimo, says "I have always been a champion of the younger people."

Mr. Matthews, campaigning for the Nanaimo-Cowichan Islands seat which he held during the Diefenbaker government, said youth should be revitalized on a national scale.

SPORTS NEEDED

The candidate in the Nov. 8 federal election claimed young people should be encouraged by the government to engage in sports.

"When Prince Philip accused Canadians of being soft, I defended them in the House of Commons," he said.

WEST OUT

The West always sends representatives to Ottawa, and they cannot do the job because they have no hope of becoming the government or the leading opposition. Liberal candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan-the Islands Doug Greer told Duncan Junior Chamber of Commerce this week.

STRONG MAJORITY

The Liberals need a strong majority in parliament, Mr. Greer said.

Mr. Barnett, commenting on a press release from one of the candidates which advised the voters to elect an MP who was a supporter of the government, said: "I deplore the fact that any candidate should advise a return to pork barrel politics, such as we knew in the old days. In the last majority government of the Liberals and in the last majority government of the Conservatives the ministers of public works, both implemented the removal of political patronage in their department."

DESPOIT CHARGE

Commenting on the election, a member from the party in power, Mr. MacKenzie said this idea "smacks of despotism."

He said: "It reflects badly on the whole Liberal party to imply that only a Liberal MP gets a fair share for his constituency."

"I'm sure this idea would never be condoned by the Liberal leaders. I am surprised to hear Loren Jordan (Liberal candidate Comox-Alberni) make such a damning statement."

Prior to his conversion to non-partisan politics, Mr. MacKenzie once ran as a Liberal candidate.

Planning Session Opens

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island Community Congress will open at the Credit Union building this afternoon with Lewis Crutcher, a Portland architect, and Warren Kennedy, executive director of the Architectural Institute of B.C. as guest speakers.

The Congress is sponsored by Nanaimo Advisory Planning Commission, and Commissioner D. N. Weismiller said the main idea of the congress is to keep away from specific problems.

Both speakers, he said, want the congress kept on a broad plane.

Mr. Crutcher will be outlining his ideas for improving the appearance of downtown areas. He is concerned with proliferation of billboards and hanging wires.

Planning for the future, and what should be done today for the year 2,000 will be Warren Kennedy's theme.

PARKSVILLE — All candidates in the Comox-Alberni riding in the federal election are being invited to speak at a meeting sponsored by Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce at the Community Hall Nov. 3 at 8 p.m.

DUNCAN — The director of the sheltered workshop planned here, Mrs. Joan Punnett will be introduced officially at the next meeting of the Duncan and District Association for Retarded Children, Tuesday 8 p.m. at Arcadian School.

It is hoped the sheltered workshop will open Dec. 1 at Duncan.

NANAIMO — Rotary members entertained each other on Friday at their luncheon meeting. Three club members gave short talks from their own experiences. Harry Wippen, arena manager, kept the diners amused with tales from his lacrosse and hockey days. Gordon McGavin said he had spent most of his life working for lumber companies. Bill Hollingsworth recounted how he had started as an apprentice boilermaker.

LAKE COWICHAN — Formation of municipalities and regional districts will be the topic of J. D. Laird, deputy minister of municipal affairs when he speaks to the Lake Cowichan District Chamber of Commerce Oct. 26.

PARKSVILLE — Kingsley low rental housing project will benefit from the proceeds of a smorgasbord dinner to be at Parksville Legion hall under the auspices of Mr. Arrowsmith Branch Legion Sunday, from 3 to 6 p.m.

The low rental housing project is being sponsored by the Legion branch.

NANAIMO — Press and radio representatives were guests of the Greater Nanaimo Celebration.

tion Society at a dinner meeting here Thursday night. Society president Les Mottishaw thanked those present for helping to make the May 24 celebrations so successful this year. The annual general meeting was set for Oct. 28 at the Royal Canadian Legion, Wallace Street.

PARKSVILLE — Anton Krut, a chartered accountant has been elected by acclamation as president of the Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Ronald Thwaites. Installation banquet and dance will be Nov. 20 at the Island Hall Hotel. Others elected were Verne Huntley, first vice president; Ron Carson, second vice president; Arnie Van Horne, secretary and Charles Casford, treasurer.

PORT ALBERNI

The Alberni Valley Badminton Club has been granted the use of A. W. Emill school for one evening a week, Duncan Russell, head of the Valley's recreation committee, has been informed.

The minor soccer group also asked for the use of some elementary school area three nights weekly. Mr. Russell has also asked for the use of Hilton school facilities on Tuesdays and Thursdays to start a program of gymnastics for elementary school children.

PORT ALBERNI

The B.C. Truck Loggers Association is again offering prizes for essays on safety to Grades 5, 6 and 7 in 12 districts including Port Alberni school district. Five $150 prize for the over-all winner. Entries close April 1, 1966.

LAKE COWICHAN — Highlights of the curriculum for students taking courses from kindergarten to Grade 7 were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Lake Cowichan Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Doreta Davis explained the language arts used in Grades 1 and 2, and Mrs. H. W. Andrien and Len Pletzer outlined the mathematics courses for Grades 1 and 6.

'Plan for Beauty'

Cowichan Band Unveils Big Development Plan

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Cowichan Indian band may develop a large block of its land for a giant shopping centre complex, which would be the largest in the area.

The ambitious plan for development of 17 acres near the armories was announced Friday by Chief Mike Underwood, who said, "the plan awaits the official approval of Cowichan Indian band council at its next meeting."

He said the plan was designed by planning consultant Robert A. Williams of Vancouver, who until a few weeks ago served the city of Duncan in a similar capacity.

Cowichan Indian Agent Ron Sampson said cost of the land-use study including the plan is shared between the band and the Indian Affairs Department.

The plan was shown to the band council for the first time at its recent meeting.

The exact location of the planned centre is between Government Street, the proposed extension of Cowichan Way, a proposed road along the railroad tracks, and Allenby Road.

Cowichan Way, now serving a new industrial area adjacent to the city's boundaries between Trunk Road and Cowichan River, would bypass the downtown area and connect with Government at Cliffe Road and traffic from Cowichan Lake area could avoid the congested city streets.

Within the 17-acre tract of land would be sites for a large department store, a food store, a number of smaller shops, a recreational building, a gas station and sufficient parking for each business premises in the landscaped area.

Chief Underwood, although not yet able to disclose the cost of the entire development including the proposed new road system, said, "Negotiations are being carried out with several business firms which may be interested in establishing in the new area."

MORE IDEAS

Outside the generously laid out business centre, the town planning consultant recommended housing projects including an apartment on the ridge between Government Street and Cowichan River, a motor hotel in the vicinity of Allenby Road and an area for recreational facilities.

Mr. Sampson said, "The band council hopes this plan works out with the co-operation of the city of Duncan."

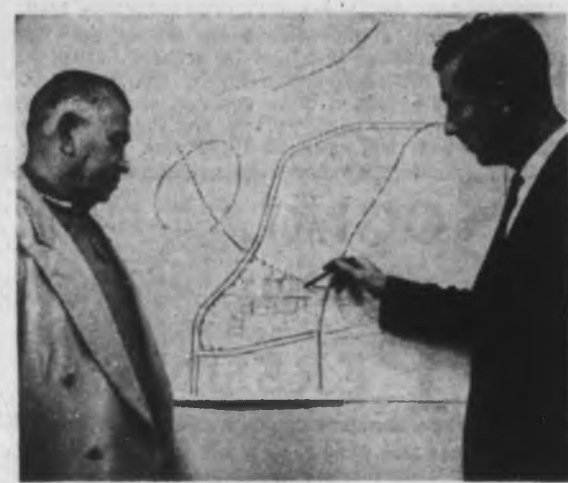

He claimed the centre plus the other development would enhance the city considerably.

Duncan Ald. Hamish Mutter said, "We wish the Indians every success in the development and I am quite certain the city will co-operate in every possible way."

GANGES—Premier Bennett urged Friday that local residents work closely with government in providing "proper control and planning" to ensure that Salt Spring Island remains beautiful.

He opened a $250,000 provincial building which houses a magistrate's court and offices of the provincial welfare and finance departments.

Works Minister Chant, whose department designed the building, described it as only a foretaste of the great surge of development soon to hit the Gulf Islands.

Norwegian Sailor

Police Identify Floating Body

NANAIMO — Police are investigating the drowning of a seaman from a Norwegian ship, and one of the questions raised by the identification of the body is: Why did the ship leave without saying there was a seaman missing?

The body of a man found floating off the assembly wharf here has been identified as Herolf Jensen, 23, a seaman off the Norwegian freighter Bris.

It is believed the man drowned, and no foul play is suspected, although police investigation is still continuing.

Mr. Jensen's passport was found on his body.

The Bris sailed from Nanaimo Sept. 27.

No report of a missing seaman was made while the freighter was in Nanaimo.

White, Indian Rites To Open New Centre

PORT ALBERNI — When the Indian Friendship Centre officially opens here Oct. 23, the ceremonies will reflect customs of both white and Indian residents.

Final arrangements were completed at an executive meeting earlier this week.

Representing non-Indians, Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni will give the opening remarks at 3 p.m. and will be accompanied by Alberni Mayor Fred Bishop.

CHIEF KIETLAH

Chief Nelson Kietlah of Ahousat will represent the Indian tribes at the afternoon ceremonies.

Florence Charlie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frances Charlie, who have been very active in the initial period of planning and work, will cut the ribbon opening the Friendship Centre.

One of the highlights will be the handing over of the keys to the centre by Mark Mosher, and payment of the first year's lease with a cheque for $1 presented by treasurer Tommy Watts Jr.

The Indian ceremonies are under the direction of George Clutesi, who explained the significance of some of the sacred ceremonies.

"First, the welcome song will be sung," said Mr. Clutesi, "and then when all are seated, incantations will be voiced by Chief Jack Peter, who is noted for this form of ceremonial intonation."

"Our most sacred ceremonies are always opened with this form of incantation. We shall then have opened the building both in the white and in our own way."

If lunch is served at any time during the ceremonies, the Indian grace will be sung, a ceremonial song used only prior to a feast.

With the business of opening the centre over, the advisory council and trustees will meet for the brief business meeting as laid out in the Friendship Centre's charter.

Technical Snags Slow Park Status

COURTENAY — Skiers here have been assured the proposed acquisition by the provincial government for park purposes of part of Forbidden Plateau is moving along swiftly.

Mt. Becher Ski Development Society has received a letter from Municipal Affairs Minister and Comox MLA Dan Campbell, which said Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston has answered criticism of his department for delays in gaining park status for the plateau.

Mr. Williston was quoted as saying, "Every effort is being made to bring the transaction to completion at the earliest possible date."

The letter said technical matters such as road and land surveys, location of duplicate land title, and registration of the lot have delayed park status for the area.

Some good news was received, as highways department work crews increased the parking area at Forbidden Plateau Lodge, and gravelled and drained the upper portion of Plateau Road.

It is expected the improvements should relieve congestion expected when ski enthusiasts come to enjoy the snow, when it hits the 15 acres of cleared ski runs under the t-bar ski lift.

Queen of Prince Rupert on ways

King-Size Problems For Queen

By BOB PETHICK

Enough ill omens to make an old sea dog shudder plagued the launching Friday of the $6,000,000 ferry Queen of Prince Rupert.

The ship's captain-to-be was in hospital.

The ship's launching had been delayed 24 hours by high winds.

A quick throw of the bottle by VMD president Harold Husband bounced unbroken off the hull.

High winds buffeting the ship as it hit the water caused a tugboat cable and a retaining cable to snap, and tugs had to hustle to stop the runaway from colliding with Ogden Point dock.

NOT IMPRESSED

But a couple of old sea dogs weren't impressed with the series of mishaps.

"I don't go along with this superstitious business," said Capt. Vern Green of the B.C. Pilotage, a veteran of 35 years at sea. "I think it's a good demonstration of quick thinking on Mr. Husband's part, and by the tugboat men. It shows the kind of men we have at sea these days."

And you can bet Tommy Parkinson will look after any so-called jinxes," he added. Capt. Parkinson has been appointed captain of the Queen of Prince Rupert. He is at present recovering from surgery.

SHE'S ALL RIGHT

J. B. White, a veteran seaman who sailed before the mail, wasn't concerned with the mail, either. "She'll be all right," he said. "In the old days sailors wouldn't go to sea on a ship that had that happen. Now people who sail the ships are different. They aren't superstitious." Would Mr. White sail aboard the Prince Rupert?

"Certainly," he said.

The comedy of mishaps began as Health Minister Eric Martin, representing Premier Bennett, concluded his speech. The launching mechanism was turned on ready to start the ship down the ways, when a log floated across the ship's projected trail.

There was a delay as the log was pulled clear. Mrs. Murray, wife of the Speaker of the B.C. Legislature, William Murray, stepped up and began her sponsor's speech, and the unidentified boy leaped accidentally on the button.

Mrs. Murray triggered the bottle, which just nudged the bow. Mr. Husband grabbed the bottle and hurled it, but it refused to break and as about 60 people on the platform watched the ship head down the ways, the boy disappeared.

Heavy winds buffeting the ship snapped two cables, and four tugs wrestled the large ferry clear, and then pulled it into the dock.

But in spite of it all, the ship was christened.

A determined Mrs. Murray, filed down to the wharf, where a makeshift platform had been prepared and a new bottle of champagne was supplied.

With understandable feeling, Mrs. Murray said: "I name this ship the Queen of Prince Rupert, and God bless all who sail on her." She swung, the foam gushed and the Prince Rupert was in business.

She will make her maiden voyage from Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert May 20.

Peterson Praises Girl

Silver Medal Given

By PETER TAYLOR

NANAIMO — A tradition, started in 1876, was perpetuated Friday when Leslie Peterson, minister of education presented the Governor-General's silver medal to Susan MacKenzie.

Louise Underwood, former chief of the Cowichan Band and daughter of present Chief Mike Underwood, has been appointed as the council's secretary.

Miss Underwood will work closely with the Indian agency at Duncan and the band council will establish an office for her on the reserve.

Susan, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam MacKenzie, 1046 Nelson Street, was the top student in the university entrance examinations in the province, with a 95.25 per cent average.

Earl Dufferin, then Governor-General of Canada, on a visit to British Columbia in 1875, promised to give a silver medal and two bronze medals to the top students in the province.

The silver medal and one bronze medal to the runner-up have been presented since that time.

Mr. Peterson in presenting the medal paid tribute to both Susan and her parents. He called Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie the outstanding parents of the year, "because not all education takes place in the school."

The minister said equality of educational opportunity is the goal in British Columbia, and he maintained it is not in every educational system that the top student could come from one of the smaller centres like Nanaimo.

Susan replied briefly to the minister's remarks, and said she hoped she had brought to Nanaimo school board "some of the recognition it deserves."

She is now studying at UBC, and intends to become a university lecturer in either English or French.

Indians Appoint New Secretary

DUNCAN — Year-long efforts by Cowichan Indian band council to obtain sufficient funds from the federal government to employ a full-time secretary have been successful.

Louise Underwood, former chief of the Cowichan Band and daughter of present Chief Mike Underwood, has been appointed as the council's secretary.

Miss Underwood will work closely with the Indian agency at Duncan and the band council will establish an office for her on the reserve.

Island Area

Regional Notice In the Offing

DUNCAN — Notice will definitely be given to the Lady Smith-Duncan-Cowichan Lake area in the future to form a regional district.

James Baird, assistant deputy municipal affairs minister, told a meeting of 80 invited municipal, waterworks and fire district representatives Friday night this notice will be coming.

He said if there is no objection to the regional district 60 days after notice has been given, the district will be formed.

NOT THIS YEAR

But Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan told the meeting the notice will not be given this year or in 1966.

This gives the area time to plan for the district organization, and the meeting concluded with a decision to set up a committee to do just that.

LEAVE MEET

A delegation from Salt Spring Island left the meeting before the decision, expressing the view that the regional district would not benefit Salt Spring.

George Bonner of Cobble Hill said he was afraid the district might be railroaded through.

MEETINGS

He urged meetings be held in the unorganized areas of the district. "I am not for this district or against it. I want to make sure the voters know exactly what they will be voting on."

C. R. Horel from Salt Spring asked what benefit the Island would get from the district. Mr. Baird said the district would have an engineer on staff, and his services would be available to the Island.

JUST EXPLAIN

Mr. Baird commented "the government has no intention of ramming something down your throats. I'm just here to explain what it's all about."

North Cowichan Councillor George Whittaker asked how staff would be financed during the period of investigation of formation of the district.

NO FUNDS

Mr. Baird said the government has no funds available for this purpose.

Mayor Dobson said "we are interested in the regional concept, and I feel if such a region had been set up years ago, many problems we have faced would not have arisen."

Winter Hampers Kiwanis Plans

COURTENAY — The shortage of deer hides for their deer hide barrel may be the result of a heavy winter kill, conservation officer Jim Osman told Kiwanis at a dinner meeting Thursday.

He estimated 30 per cent of the Comox Valley deer population died last winter because of the extreme snow conditions and the length of time that this condition existed.

MOOSE STORY

He said he found the bodies of more than 30 deer that had starved to death, and, using this figure, he assumed more than 500 deer had suffered the same fate.

He told the meeting two years ago in the Chilcotin country severe winter conditions existed in which the moose population suffered heavily.

In one case he watched a moose moving through deep snow, because of weakness it stumbled when it walked out on a road and fell, breaking its leg.

He said conditions were the same there as last winter here, thinning out game.

USE CAMERA

"But I think a deer looks more beautiful after you shoot it with a camera than with a gun."

"I now prefer to do most of my hunting that way," he said.

Kiwanis club places hide barrels in the woods to collect hides from deer killed by hunters. Proceeds from the hides go to support work of the service club.

Demonstrations Across Country

By UPI

Critics of U.S. participation in Viet Nam marched by the thousands in noisy demonstrations Friday in cities across the nation in a concerted drive for a reversal of American foreign policy.

Heavy Blow

Viet Nam Ignores Red Call

SAIGON (UPI) — The people of South Viet Nam dealt a blow to the Communists Friday by disregarding a Viet Cong call for an hour-long nationwide strike.

Men, women and children flocked as usual to markets, schools and places of business as the time called for the strike — 11 a.m. to noon — came and went without incident.

U.S. Embassy officials who kept a close tab on everyday activities in towns and cities of South Viet Nam said the Communist bid for an outpouring of popular support was "a total fiasco."

TO PROVE BOAST

The strike call was the first the Communists have made to prove their boast that the majority of the Vietnamese people stand behind them.

The failure of the strike was regarded by some observers as the closest thing to an election ever offered to the Vietnamese public during the 20-year struggle with the Communists. Officials wondered why the Communists had put their prestige on the line so recklessly.

ANNIVERSARY

The strike-call was made to mark the anniversary of the execution of a Communist terrorist in Saigon.

The walkout was to have touched off a month of "popular struggle" against the government and U.S. forces.

About 2,000 law enforcement officers and national guardsmen were on duty for possible outbreaks.

"DARK DAY"

Earlier, Oakland Mayor John C. Houlihan vowed the march would be blocked.

RAW EGGS

Raw eggs were showered from an upper floor of Roosevelt University onto Chicago's Michigan Avenue as rival groups marched on the sidewalk. The pro and con forces scuffled over a picket sign.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., a float depicting opposition to the war was overturned—and air let out of its tires—a few hours before it was to join a University of Michigan homecoming parade.

AGENTS READY

Hundreds of pickets demonstrated at the armed forces induction centre in New York. Three-hundred demonstrators marched and chanted in front of an induction centre in Chicago's loop.

Federal agents were reported to have circulated among the New York demonstrators, ready to take action if any of the protesters destroyed their draft cards.

Montreal Students In March

MONTREAL (UPI)—About 120 Montreal students, their enthusiasm dampened by a steady drizzle held an anti-American Viet Nam policy protest meeting in Montreal's Dominion Square Friday.

The students, from McGill, Sir George Williams, and Montreal Universities, marched down the Peel Street sidewalks to the square where they heard former British Guiana premier, Cheddi Jagan, call the United States "bandits."

Backers of American involvement in the war clashed with the pacifist groups in some cities and heckled them in others in the first phase of a scheduled three-day round of protests.

Berkeley, Calif., was the scene of the largest demonstration. About 6,000 persons marched from the University of California campus to the Oakland army base, about 7½ miles distant.

The march began despite refusal of Oakland and Berkeley authorities to issue a permit; and after the demonstrators had been denied a federal court order for an injunction against the two cities.

About 2,000 law enforcement officers and national guardsmen were on duty for possible outbreaks.

Earlier, Oakland Mayor John C. Houlihan vowed the march would be blocked.

Demonstration leaders forecast "a dark day in American history if they try to stop us." Marchers carried signs calling for "no more war" and "stop LBJ's war."

Raw eggs were showered from an upper floor of Roosevelt University onto Chicago's Michigan Avenue as rival groups marched on the sidewalk. The pro and con forces scuffled over a picket sign.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., a float depicting opposition to the war was overturned—and air let out of its tires—a few hours before it was to join a University of Michigan homecoming parade.

Hundreds of pickets demonstrated at the armed forces induction centre in New York. Three-hundred demonstrators marched and chanted in front of an induction centre in Chicago's loop.

Federal agents were reported to have circulated among the New York demonstrators, ready to take action if any of the protesters destroyed their draft cards.

Prime Minister Pearson told TV viewers Friday night his government plans to discuss the export of Canadian water with United States officials.

"This can be as important as exporting wheat or oil or anything else, and one day we'll find out how important this resource is," he said in Ottawa.

In Victoria, John Diefenbaker took sharp exception to this and made the issue a major topic in his two-hour speech to a packed house in the Bay Street Armory last night.

Rekindling his vision of Canada for an enthusiastic crowd he said "the proposed export of Canadian water is not in keeping with the constitutional rights of the provinces and forgets the demands of our young citizens in the next 30 years."

At the same time in Nelson Mr. Diefenbaker's former agriculture minister, Alvin Hamilton, said Canada should agree to the United States plan to syphon off huge quantities of fresh water.

In his outline Mr. Pearson stressed Canada would have to be "awfully careful" to ensure that its own needs are met before exporting water to the U.S.

'Fair Deal for B.C.'

Bennett To Battle

By IAN STREET

GANGES — Premier Bennett disclosed here Friday he will campaign in this election—starting with a rally at Prince George Oct. 21—for "a fair deal for B.C."

The premier gave places where he will make election speeches, including Victoria at the end of this month, but no firm dates. He was here to open a new $250,000 government building, then planned to spend a quiet weekend on his Salt Spring Island retreat.

He will fly to Prince George for the campaign opener, returning by air to Vancouver the next day for a press conference in the Hotel Vancouver.

The trip through the Interior, covering the Okanagan and East and West Kootenays, will be by car, with the premier stopping frequently to "main street," shaking hands with individual voters and chatting about local problems.

Pressed for more details of his speaking schedule, he said, "Elections are not won by speeches. You must meet the public."

The premier will then, presumably, return to Victoria about the end of the month for an election rally here before going to Vancouver for the Soereds' convention and a windup election meeting Nov. 5.

When he speaks in Kimberley there will be Welfare Minister Black and Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell in support. At Trail the ministers will be Donald Brothers, mines, and Eric Martin, health.

At Penticton it will be Recreation Minister Kiernan and Agriculture Minister Richter, and at Vernon Mr. Richter and Highways Minister Gagliardi.

In addition, under the two-province Soereds plan of attack, Resources Minister Williston will campaign in Medicine Hat, Attorney-General Bonner in Lethbridge, and Highways Minister Gagliardi in Edmonton.

Alberta cabinet ministers will make a series of return trips to B.C., but details aren't released yet.

Red Boss Captured

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian Communist boss D. N. Aidit, object of a widespread manhunt for his participation in the abortive leftist attempt to seize power, is reported to have been arrested in central Java. Several newspapers said Aidit,

Hunt for Relative Not a Happy One

The uniting of relatives over the space of many miles and years can be an occasion of delicious joy, or of sorrow.

If a Duncan woman finds a missing relative in Los Angeles, the happiness will be tempered with sadness.

She told the Colonist in a letter she noticed in a newspaper article a teen-age boy in California had the same, unusual, name as her father, who came to North America from his European homeland many years ago.

Now, she will get in touch with the Californian, if she can, and find out if he is a long-lost member of the family.

Red tape will have to be cut to reach him, because the event that brought his name into the newspapers was his conviction for his part in the gang rape of a policeman's daughter.

Philip Sorry For Damage At Airport

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — Prince Philip, personally piloting his plane on a flight from Milan, Italy, tore up turf along the runway in landing Friday night at Soane Airport near here.

"I'm sorry for making a mess of your runway," he told airport officials and ground crew members.

Prince Philip had made a perfect landing in the Andover plane, but as he taxied to one of the main hangars the plane's wheels tore large pieces of turf from the edge of the runway.

For the last two days, Philip was in Milan attending a British week exhibition. Queen Elizabeth planned to join her husband and spend the weekend shooting on the moors near Perth.

U.S. Production Slows Down

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — U.S. industrial production declined in September for the first time in 10 months, the government has reported.

The Federal Reserve Board, the U.S. central bank, said its index of industrial production dropped one per cent last month, placing output back at about the same level as in June.

Labor Congress Supports NDP

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress Friday urged "the strongest possible support" for the New Democratic Party in the Nov. 8 federal election.

"How about restoring peace and unity in Canada through the election of a Conservative government?" was the rejoinder from Mr. Diefenbaker.

Then he said, "All of us want peace."

"Many here carry the marks of service for freedom."

FRUGHT WITH PEEL

"The situation in South Viet Nam is fraught with great peril. It is not easy to say what should be done."

Then he asserted: "Asking for recall of the Americans will not bring peace."

A demonstrator's placard read: "Yankee Come Home!"

"It would be so easy to take that stand."

"But what would happen?"

"Southeast Asia would fall to communism and Australia and New Zealand would be threatened."

HOPE AND PRAYER

"It is my hope and prayer," he said, "that North Viet Nam, the puppet of Communist China, will agree to cessation of hostilities."

"The U.S. is willing," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "North Viet Nam and its partners in Peking are not willing."

I WANT IT

Mr. Diefenbaker took Mr. Munro by the arm and said, "My boy, we are every bit as desirous of world peace as you are, and I want it as you do."

"But we will never achieve peace for you to enjoy in the future if we adopt a stand of weakness."

However, Mr. Diefenbaker promised he would not commit Canada to military aid to the United States in Viet Nam.

SEVEN QUESTIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech in Victoria included seven questions for the prime minister concerning allegations made in the recently published book by former Social Credit MP Guy Marcoux (see Page 5).

But he did not give the detailed documentation heard in other cities where he has recently spoken.

The basic appeal was to the traditions of the past, "which must not continue to be eroded away," and the possibilities for the future.

SET MOOD

The first pronouncement of the evening under the heading of "issues" set the mood and the theme of his presentation.

This election will chart the future of the nation. Today we face in every part of the nation, the rising feeling of the Canadian people that action must be taken to stop the erosion of the traditional things of this nation and restore honesty to public life."

He said, concerning Liberal policy in the past two-and-one-half years, "retreat has followed retreat . . . in the tradition of the U.S. federal election."

Troops Clear Barriers From Capital

SANTO DOMINGO (UP) — The Dominican capital was an integrated city once again Friday as inter-American force troops and trucks cleared sandbags and barbed wire entanglements from the streets and filled in anti-tank pits.

The troops took down the so-called checkpoints they had established throughout the city since their arrival last April.

The actions reunited the city for the first time since the start of the civil war last April 24. Purpose of the barricades and checkpoints was to keep the rival Dominican factions from clashing.

Reds Inflict Heavy Losses

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong rebels ambushed a South Vietnamese patrol of 100 men and inflicted heavy casualties, a military spokesman said today. But Vietnamese troops outfought the guerrillas in another clash.
